Deputy fine after 'slow motion' rollover

"Whenever you hear the word rollover you think the worst, but this wasn't the case here"

PIKE COUNTY -- A Pike County deputy trying to make a turn-around on a speeder Sunday on Highway 27 slipped into a washout and overturned his patrol unit, according to Sheriff

Hill said Deputy David Walker, who was being followed by Deputy Adriana Laurent, was traveling on Highway 27 on the straight stretch near the Laurel Creek turn when he clocked a speeder exceeding the posted limit. Hill said Walker was making a shoulder to shoulder U-turn when his 2020 Durango slipped into a washed out area of the shoulder. Sheriff Hill said the washout was a virtual drop-off and added that Walker, who was not injured, told him the rollover "happened in slow motion."

The accident caused Walker's radio unit to go out and Deputy Laurent reported the rollover.

Sheriff Hill along with several deputies and an ambulance went to the scene.

"Whenever you hear the word 'rollover' you think the worst, but this wasn't the case here," Hill added.

TOUGH SLEDDING ... The Murfreesboro Rattlers were defeated by Mount Ida in the second round of the Class 2A state playoffs last Friday night at home to end their successful 2024 campaign. Pictured above is senior QB Laytan Wilcher looking to escape the grasp of a Mount Ida defender as he seeks to scramble upfield.

Lions tame Rattlers to end season

MURFREESBORO - For the second consecutive year the Murfreesboro Rattlers lost a second-round Class 2A playoff game they were

Last year it was to Marked Tree, and this season it was versus Mount Ida by a 48-16 score.

The loss ends the Rattlers' season at 8-4. After winning the initial coin toss and deferring to the second half, not much went the Rattlers' way.

Mount Ida would take the opening short kickoff and travel 55 yards for a touchdown on Ben Woodfield's rush from the one-yard line. Woodfield would hit the extra point attempt to give the visiting Lions a 7-0 lead with 6:40 remaining in the first half.

The Rattlers would attempt to respond on their initial possession, which also started around midfield. Brody Maroon would carry the ball three times straight to move the Rattlers to the Lions' 40-yard line, but a false start penalty by Murfreesboro began to unravel the effort. On third and six, a sweep attempt was derailed by Ty Speer for negative yardage and the Rattlers were forced to punt. Dakota Beechy would attempt to wrangle the bounding punt attempt inside his own five yard line, and was forced to cover up the effort, placing the ball at the one yard line. Undaunted, the Lions would drive 99 yards to score on a drive that spanned into the second quarter. Woodfield again would score on a two-yard rush and hitting the extra point to give the Li-

Perhaps the only thing to go wrong in the evening for Mount Ida was an injury to QB Beechy on the drive that would place him out for the rest of the game.

The Rattlers showed some fight on the ensuing drive. After the kickoff went out of bounds, MHS began at their 35-yard line. Senior QB Laytan Wilcher set to pass on first down, and after being harassed and forced to scramble he would reverse field for a 13-yard gain.

The Rattlers would cross midfield two plays later on a offsides penalty against the Lions. After six consecutive rushes found MHS at the 15-yard line, Brody Maroon would gain 13 yards on a fourth and one play, and then score a touchdown a play later. Wilcher would successfully cross the line for the two-point conversion placing the score at 14-8.

Murfreesboro nearly secured the bounding onside kick attempt, but the referees indicated that Mount Ida recovered at their 44-yard line.

Woodfield would break loose on the next play, and only a valiant effort by Caden Dixon to run him down at the two yard line saved the score. However, no defensive rally would materialize, and Jackson White would score on a two yard plunge on the next play. White also would add the two-point conversion on a rush, placing the score at 22-8.

Murfreesboro would fumble the ball away on their next possession, giving the ball to the Lions at the 37-yard line.

With the second quarter waning, the Rattlers looked set to make a critical defensive stand. Holding the Lions to a fourth and seven attempt at the 34 yard line, the pass downfield went incomplete. However, a pass interference penalty on MHS would give the Lions new life with a first down at the 19-yard line.

A pair of Woodfield rushes later Mount Ida was in the end zone again, and his extra point kick was good to give the Lions a 29-8 lead.

With 1:45 remaining in the half, Murfreesboro set out to score again before the halftime break. After a pair of rushing attempts gained 11 yards, Wilcher connected with Kooper Caldwell to cross midfield on a 16-yard reception. Boys ready for basketball as football ends, girls seeks to go faster MURFREESBORO – Having yet to practice together as a full team, the Murfreesboro Rattlers are ready to set their sights on the 2024-2025 season following the end of the football season.

Rattler Coach Billy "Buster" Bonner, who has previously coached at MHS before going on to Nashville, Dierks and Mena, was brought in to replace Kevin Alexander after Alexander left to coach Marmaduke this season.

Alexander and the Rattlers found new heights last season, winning the postseason conference and regional tournaments before falling in the quarterfinals of the state tournament.

Also departed is all-state graduated senior guard Kade Caldwell, who completed a prolific career at MHS last season and will suit up for Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia this season after initially signing with Harding University ear-

Bonner, who graduated from Henderson State in Arkadelphia, was at MHS for six years before being a classroom teacher exclusively. Lyn Graves would later bring him to Dierks High School.

"Then I went back to Mena, that's where I grew up," said Bonner. After two years there, he concluded his career - or so he thought – with 14 years in the Nashville School District.

After 10 years of retirement, Bonner said high school principal Davey Jones was the one to convince him to return to the court at MHS. "It was getting close to school, and they didn't have a coach, so they asked me if I would come up. We'll just play it by ear how it goes forward." He admits that there is the possibility that the current arrangement is only for one year and the situation will be reevaluated after the season.

Bonner said he has been practicing with seven players, which includes center James Silva, who will look to reprise his breakout season with the Rattlers last season.

"It's hard to put in a lot of stuff, because we'll just have to redo it. So, we've been working on our shooting and fundamentals. As far as any X's and O's, you'd just have to redo when everyone gets here, so ... with me not having the team before, when they get up here we will have a lot to do in a very short period

Bonner said he has seen a few games from last year's squad, and expect his senior squad to have talent.

"Of course, you have James [Silva] up here – 6'4" – and he's in the gym right now. It's hard to say about all the potential players, but even if they aren't in the starting mix, they will have a chance at playing time. Several of our returning starters are in football," Bonner said before the end of the football season.

"They'll be a little ragged when they get up here – as far as shooting – but we have the potential to be good this season. We lost the big outside presence [Caldwell] but the inside presence is still here [Silva] and his younger brother could step in there. That is a concern, the outside shooting, because that freed up James inside last season. So, us getting the shooting down will be the big concern ... without that, it might get difficult."

However, Bonner confesses that last year's outside-in could be replaced with an inside-out as opposing defenses have to focus on Silva instead of Caldwell.

He also cautions fans that it will take a little time to build, much like last year's season. "It probably won't start off great, but hopefully by February

Bonner is a bit more familiar with the junior high squad, noting that despite some of good athletes there was still a "lot of work to do" before they arrive at a finished product.

He characterizes them as "raw potential."

"Especially for your younger players – 7th and 8th graders – you emphasize fundamentals with an eye toward them being senior high players."

He confesses that the recent coaching changes are not great for the youth of the Murfreesboro programs.

"These senior high ballplayers right now have had three different coaches, and it hard when you are in a different system and not knowing what you are doing every year ... changes every year. So, we have lacked that with the junior high to know exactly what's going on when they get to the senior high level. Consistency just hasn't been there for them, and it has hurt the program to some degree."

MURFREESBORO LADY RATTLERS

Following a relative down year last season – in light of recent standards - the Murfreesboro Lady Rattlers will view this season in a different light.

"The biggest difference is that it seems like we have a different mentality ... also, we have a really good group of seniors that is healthy - right now. They have just played a lot of ball together," said Lady Rattler head coach Nicole Martin.

Martin admits that last year's squad had goals they couldn't or wouldn't ultimately meet.

"We don't want to have those same outcomes, so we'll really try to force the issue by trying to be much more aggressive for wins as well as trying to play the game the right way and playing together. We can't play selfish, so we will be working on that. I've already seen a big difference on that already."

While last year's squad was largely based in a man-to-man defense, Martin said the current group of Lady Rattlers will return to trying to cause chaos on the court.

"We want to go steal some baskets without having to set up our half-court offense. Last year we got some baskets in transition, but it was more settle in to our offense if something didn't immediately present itself. This year, we're going to play 94 feet, and try to go get a basket. We will be back up-tempo pressing and trapping ... sure, we will play some man-to-man this year and some of our junk stuff [defenses] but, right now we really want to fly around. We have the speed to do it, we have the aggressiveness to do it, so we will just return to that style and utilize it. Not only do we want to get more stolen baskets, but we also want the other team to have less quality shots."

Playing at a higher pace can be a double-edged sword ... more potential scoring for the Lady Rattlers, but also more possessions for the opponent. "There's not a team in conference that I mind speeding up,"

Martin said succinctly. Martin admits that in pre-season practices and scrimmages

Pike County Quorum Court approves purchase of generator

MURFREESBORO – The Pike County Quorum Court voted unanimously on November 18 to purchase a Generac 48KW generator from the winning bid of $56,954.40 from Dove Electric.

The bid also includes electrical upgrades to the annex building, located across the street from the Pike County Courthouse, as well as the installation of a concrete pad.

The majority of the cost -- $48,433.72 – will completely extinguish the county's supply of American Rescue Plan Act of 2021. If the money had not been completely utilized by the end of this year it would have had to be returned to the federal government. The remaining funds -- $8,520.68 – will come out of the Local

The remaining funds -- $8,520.68 – will come out Tribal Consistency Fund.

The handbook committee will meet on Monday, November 2 to discuss any proposed changes to the Pike County Employee Handbook for 2025.

It was announced that tennis coach Mark Wiley had personally purchased the supplies for refurbishment of the tennis courts located adjacent to the former Pike County Hospital in the old city park. Wiley inquired as to the timeframe for the removal of the dilapidating cabin next to the courts, with Pike County Judge Eddie Howard stating it would occur as soon as he could get his road crew on the job.

County senior centers to investigate sales tax initiative

MURFREESBORO – Vickie Hutson, director of the Murfreesboro Senior Adult Center, told the Pike County Quorum Court on November 18 that the changes in management of the center were far from ideal.

"It's not as bad as it could be, but it is a mess," she said.

The Arkansas Agency on Aging (AAA) took over the center after the funding provider Central Arkansas Development District officially dropped the location at the start of November.

Also impacted by the move is the senior center location in Glenwood.

Hutson said the AAA was the supervising agency now, but was not a funding provider, telling the quorum court that for long term health, the county would have to likely take care of its own.

That will include the investigation of placing a sales tax referendum before the voters of Pike County in a special election that could take place in 2025.

"Between the two centers, if we don't take care of them, we could lose them," she said succinctly. "We'll have to take care of our own or lose [the centers]."

Hutson told the board of cuts that the center had experienced in November, including the removal of hot meals for delivery in the first two weeks of meals on wheels. She said last week at the Quorum Court she was able to add a hot meal to the deliveries that week, but at the cost of a frozen meal. She said the center was only able to deliver five meals a week to the homebound.

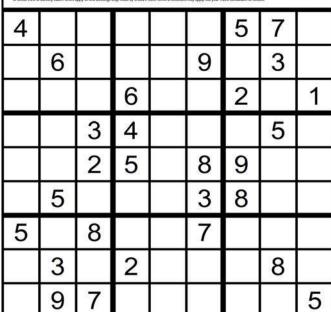

"That's five meals, not seven," Hutson said, adding that some delivery recipients in town declined the frozen meal options. "I don't look for it to get better," clarifying that under the CADC operation, they would previously deliver three hot and four frozen meals to recipients inside Murfreesboro.

She said there were around 60 recipients for meals on wheels, 40 of which were teetering on the verge of entering a nursing

Q: What is Addison's disease?

A: Addison's disease is a type of adrenal insufficiency. The adrenal glands of people affected do not produce enough of two hormones — aldosterone and cortisol. Aldosterone aids the kidneys in regulating salt and potassium in the body. Cortisol helps the body respond to stress, as well as controlling the use of carbohydrates, fat and protein. Addison's disease can be managed, but it is a life-

Addison's disease can be managed, but it is a life-threatening condition.

Many who get Addison's disease do not have specific factors that put them at higher risk. It affects men and women of any age, although the disease most often occurs in those between the ages of 30 and 50. Those who have autoimmune diseases such as disease may be more at risk.

Symptoms often occur slowly and may not be noticeable before being exacerbated by injury or another illness. These symptoms include low blood pressure, areas of darkened skin, changes in mood and behavior, muscle pain, and nausea and vomiting.

Hormone replacement therapy is used to supplement the lack of aldosterone and cortisol. This treatment is generally highly effective and allows people affected with Addison's disease to live normal lives. Contact your health care provider to establish a care plan.

Obituaries

David Barron, 76, November 20, 2024

David Barron passed away November 20, 2024, just shy of his 77th birthday. He would have complained about his gifts anyhow. He was born November 26, 1947, in Riverside County, California.

Anyone who knew him would tell you that Dave was an avid lover of animals and the F word.

He met his wife, Norma, in his teens by peeking over their shared fence to sneak a glance at her in her swimsuit. He would go on to spend the rest of his life with her.

He spent his early years in the United States Marine Corps. It was during this time that they would be blessed with their daughter, DeWanna.

When his service in the United States Marine Corps came to an end, he purchased a bait shop and motel on Lake Greeson. And so it was that he and his wife would pack up and move across the country to Arkansas where he would spend the rest of his days.

In 1989, he became Papa Dave, after the birth of his granddaughter, Treell. To his dismay, it was not a grandson, so her first stuffed animal was Joe Montana. She would be given Swiss Army Knives her entire childhood.

Dave spent most of his days propped up on his store's counter covered in polaroids of that month's largest catch, flyswatter in hand, sharing in the community's latest gossip. He was boisterous and always willing to remind you in conversation that he was a former Marine. He never shied away from throwing hands a single day in his life.

As tough as he was, Dave had a soft spot for animals. He rescued multiple animals in his community during his time there. He helped homeless dogs and cats every chance he got. He even rescued a Tyson chicken once.

He was known in his local community as "Super Dave", a nickname he earned by taking his bass boat full speed across the water. He never missed a good opportunity to fish or raise hell.

He took the role of Papa Dave very seriously. He would continue that role with his great grandchildren. There was nothing he wouldn't do for his family. He was a husband, a father, and a grandpa. During his time spent serving these roles he instilled work ethic, strength, and most of all compassion.

David is survived by his wife, Norma Barron of Murfreesboro. His daughter De-Wanna House of Murfreesboro. His granddaughter Treell Gorden and her spouse Kyle Gorden of Benton, and their three children Timber, Archer and Creek. His sister Judy Barron-Rodgers of California. His sister Donna Reed of Oklahoma.

There will be no services held per Dave's request as he did not want people gawking at him, especially people he did not like!

In lieu of flowers donations may be made to your local animal shelter.

Opal Jane May, 83, Delight

Opal Jane May, 83, of Delight, Arkansas passed away on Wednesday, November 20, 2024 in Hot Springs. She was born October 16, 1941 in Pisgah, Arkansas the daughter of the late Leslie Rather and Effie Blakely Rather.

Opal was Delight's local artist for many years. Many people in the Pike, Nevada, Howard and Hempstead counties still display her works of art, which was her passion.
In addition to her parents she was preceded in death by a daughter Lisa Noel May, by a daughter Lisa Noel May, brothers Ricky Rather, Terrell Rather and Darrell Rather; and two sisters Bamer Craig and Vickie Goodson. Surviving children include

James and Cindy Smith of Delight, Toney and Teresa Moore of Little Rock, Allen George of Nashville, Tommy and Amanda Dankert of Delight, Opal loved her grandchildren Jasmine, Jessy, Chloe, Tiana and Sage; and her great grandchildren Matthew and Zion.

Keith Allen Self, age 86 of Murfreesboro, entered his eternal home on Wednesday, November 20, 2024 at his home. He was born on September 17, 1938 in Murfreesboro to the late Clarence Self and Otis Hughes Self.

Mr. Self was a lifelong member of the Pleasant Home Church of Christ. He loved reading his bible everyday. He planted many trees around the area, including, pine, oak and took great pride in his chinkapin trees. În an article published in the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, it was stated the Mr. Self was responsible for bringing back the Native Arkansas Chinkapin tree to this area. He loved spending time with his family, especially his grandchildren and catfishing on the White River with his friends. He will be remembered as a man of his word and being community minded.

Keith Allen Self, 86, Murfreesboro

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by a son, Keith Allen Self Jr., a brother, William Self, a sister, Janice Womack and an infant sister, Gail Self.

LITTLE ROCK — At least two lucky birds won't be the centerpiece of a Thanksgiving feast this year. Instead, they were the center of attention Thursday as Gov. Sarah Huckabee Sanders pardoned "Tom and Gladys" and issued a proclamation celebrating the role of turkey production in the state's agricultural economy. Nevaeh Haile, 9, a member of the Mount

Vernon/Enola 4-H Club in Faulkner County, raised the turkeys at her parents Ruth and Stephen Haile's hobby farm. The male turkey, an 18-month-old Black Spanish gobbler, won grand champion at the Arkansas State Fair ear-

"We're proud to continue this tradition," Sanders told a crowd of more than 100 people gathered on the grounds of the Governor's Mansion. "Nevaeh, I know you've done a great job. We're excited to pardon Tom and Gladys, and we're excited to be here to welcome you."

Nevaeh was exhilarated to visit the Governor's Mansion for the first time. She said she loves raising turkeys - along with the cows, goats, rabbits, chickens and dogs on the farm and hopes to be a veterinarian one day. She kept a firm hold on Tom while posing for photos with the governor and representatives from Arkansas 4-H, the University of Arkansas System Division of Agriculture, Future Farmers of America, Poultry Federation and business and industry leaders.

Sanders, Secretary of Agriculture Wes Ward and Poultry Federation president Marvin Childers praised the state's turkey industry for its contributions to Arkansas' economy.

Arkansas ranks third in the nation in turkey production, producing 27 million turkeys a year and adding $510 million to the economy, Childers said.

Arkansas' poultry industry — including turkeys, broilers and eggs — leads the state's agricultural sector with cash receipts of $6.7 billion. Cargill and Butterball, two of the country's largest turkey producers, have facilities in Springdale, Huntsville, Jonesboro and Ozark. Every whole Butterball turkey sold in the United States during the holidays is processed in Arkansas, Childers said.

The governor also praised Cargill for donating 150,000 lbs. of turkey to food banks.

"Because of their generous contribution, a lot of Arkansas families will be able to enjoy and celebrate this special day of Thanksgiving," she

LITTLE ROCK -- Families across Arkansas and the country are preparing to gather to give thanks for life's many blessings. Thanksgiving, celebrated on the fourth Thursday in November, traditionally features a meal to symbolize and honor a bountiful harvest.

For many years, the Arkansas Farm Bureau Women's Leadership Committee, along with staff economists, have participated in an American Farm Bureau (AFBF) survey to estimate the average cost of a Thanksgiving meal for 10 in Arkansas. In this survey, AFBF breaks down the cost of a "classic" Thanksgiving meal and an "updated" Thanksgiving meal. The "updated" including ham, potatoes and green beans.

This year, a classic meal for a group of 10 in Arkansas is estimated to cost $49.10, or $4.91 per person. That total represents a 13% decrease from the 2023 average of $56.52, or $5.65 per person. Compared to national costs, the cost of a classic Thanksgiving dinner for a group of 10 decreased 5% from last year for a total cost of $58.08, or $5.81 per person. Additionally, when adding the expanded items (boneless ham, Russett potatoes, and frozen green beans), that price in Arkansas increases to $75.04 or $7.50 per person, which accounts for a 4% increase from 2023 at $72.21.

Again, nationally when adding the increased menu items, the price increases to $77.34, or $7.73 per person, which represents a 8.7% decrease from last year's cost of $84.75. The cost per pound for turkey in Arkansas stands at $0.95, a 42-cent decrease from 2023 ($1.42), resulting in a 33% decrease. The USDA reports average turkey prices in 2024 at $0.94 per pound, aligning the state with the national average.

The largest cost increase in ingredients this year is in the boneless ham. In 2024, a bonelesspound ham purchased in the state costs $21.20, or $5.30 per pound, compared to $10.87, or $2.72 per pound, in 2023. This represents a 95% increase year-over-year. State regulations, like California Prop 12 and Massachusetts Question 3, have increased the amount of space required to raise sows and may have led to a decreased sow supply. That, combined with the usual holiday season demand, may have driven up

Ham was not the only ingredient that saw price increases. Cube stuffing prices rose by 31%, while frozen green peas and sweet potatoes saw increases of 29% and 28%, respectively. Out of the 15 items surveyed, seven items had reduced prices compared to last year. The largest decreases were in whipping cream (-46%), fresh celery (-39%) and fresh carrots (-25%). Arkansas food prices remain relatively affordable compared to other states, however, price variations can be observed across the state and among different stores. Keep an eye out for promotional discounts to help mitigate increased costs this Thanksgiving.

The survey was conducted using statewide averages from members of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Women's Leadership Committee. These members surveyed food prices at grocery stores and supermarkets across the state and reported the "best in-store price" for 15 items, taking advantage of advertised specials, excluding discount coupons, and purchase requirements.

While not a scientific study, the survey aims to provide a snapshot of actual prices across Arkansas, with data collected from Nov. 1-7, 2024.

Think outside the box Friday

BY REBEKAH HALL

U of A System Division of Agriculture

LITTLE ROCK — As Black Friday approaches, holiday shoppers should prepare a list, make and stick to a budget and consider shifting the emphasis from physical gifts to intentional gestures that don't break the bank.

Laura Hendrix, an Accredited Financial Counselor and an associate professor of personal finance and family resource management with the University of Arkansas System Division of Agriculture, said it can be easy to overspend in an attempt to create an extravagant holiday experience.

"But the truth is that the gifts aren't really the most important part of holiday memories, Hendrix said. "Do you remember what you got for Christmas when you were eight or 10 or 12 years old? Do you remember what you got two or three years ago? Chances are your happiest holiday memories have nothing to do with the gifts vou've received."

Hendrix offers the following tips for families interested in shifting their focus from the number of presents under the tree and instead investing in the quality of holiday time spent together:

 Limit gift giving. Hendrix said families can trim holiday spending by condensing the number of gifts they purchase or limiting the amount spent per gift. "Do you usually give gifts to everyone you know? Instead, give only to your closest family members and friends," she said. "Has the price tag become more important than the token of affection? Set a dollar limit on the amount your family will spend on

 Share time and talents. "Give meaningful, unique gifts by using your time and talents instead of your pocketbook," Hendrix said. "Bake cookies or make candy to share. Give coupons for babysitting or guitar lessons. Throw a slumber party for your niece. Take your best friend on a camping trip. Get creative in thinking of special gifts that are tailored to the recipient."

 Build traditions. Cherished memories come from the warmth and joy of holiday traditions that families look forward to every year, and they don't have to cost much money. "Listen to your favorite holiday music while decorating the tree together," Hendrix said. "Watch your favorite movie together and pop your own popcorn. Bake and decorate gingerbread or sugar cookies — focus on the experience."

 Plan beyond the holiday. "Much attention is focused on Christmas morning and the opening of gifts, and it's nice to have something else to look forward to," Hendrix said. "Plan a special family time or a fun activity that goes beyond the gift-giving celebration." This could be a family trip to the movie theater to see a Christmas premiere or driving through town to look at neighborhood Christmas lights.

SHOP SMART

Black Friday traditionally falls on the Friday after Thanksgiving, and it's one of the busiest shopping days of the year. Online retailers also offer deals on Black Friday and on the following Monday, Cyber Monday. Local and online small businesses also encourage shoppers to support them on the following Saturday, Small Business Saturday.

For people who want to take advantage of

with a plan and practicing discernment. • Is it really a bargain? Research the real or original price to know if the advertised price is a real discount. Ensure it's a quality product, and not just a cheaper product at a cheaper price. "Check in with yourself: is this something you really want or need?" Hendrix said. "If not, it's a waste of money no matter the price." Resist impulse purchases. Be aware that advertised sale items are designed to drive customers into the store or onto the website. "Though the store display or pop-up ad may be enticing, stick to the items that are already on your list," Hendrix said.

 Make a plan. "List the items you need, and set a spending limit for this list," Hendrix said. "Prepare in advance by checking ads, scouting for coupons, comparing prices between stores and using a store's app on your phone. Look for ways to combine discounts, such as a sale item plus a coupon."

• Read the fine print. Be wary of sale items advertised as "door busters," "while supplies last" or "limited supplies." On Black Friday, some stores do not offer rainchecks, which is a voucher that allows a customer to purchase an advertised sale item at the sale price when it's back in stock. Similarly, price matching – when a store matches a lower price offered on the same product at another store — may not be available on Black Friday.

Establish priorities. Research when stores open, as some may open on Thanksgiving evening, at midnight, or they may offer "early bird" specials the next morning. "If an important item on your list is labeled 'while supplies last,' you may want to go to that store first and get in line early," Hendrix said.

When it comes to online shopping, ensure the retailer is reputable and has a secure payment system. Read through their return and replacement policies, and check shipping costs. If the company does not offer free shipping, consider if the item is still a bargain after shipping costs are added. Be sure to log out of all accounts and close browsers after completing a transaction.

BASKETBALL

points "without having to set up our offense ... and that's great."

She also agrees that it produces a more exciting style of basketball to watch for the average fan, and much less so for the opposing teams the Lady Rattlers will face.

"I just love when it looks like the other team is melting and you just keep going at it – they just want you to back up. I want out kids to have that cutthroat mentality – you have to be a shark and there is blood in the water. You have to make that other team so uncomfortable that they want a time out, or don't even want to be on the floor."

She jokes that the afore mentioned practice works well ... except when scrimmaging against the Rattler boys.

"Except for when we play James Silva - because James is a man-man, not a man-child, and he just dunks on us repetitively. Other than that, everything is good."

There's no holding back this year, not even in practice, said Martin.

"In our scrimmages after school, we were kinda holding back a little bit – maybe taking it easy on some groups – and I told them I'd rather they beat them 50-2 ... do exactly what you are going to do in the season. Since we've had that approach, and they've worked on the finishing, it's starting to come together. I'm excited to see what it looks like, and it is more exciting to watch. I really want the crowd to be backing them, because the amount of work they have put in to have a payoff year."

She said the relatively "weaker" Lady Rattler teams over the past two years that still went to the regional tournament has exemplified what this team can do if it excels.

"This is the year we can put it together if we can stay healthy - really kind of shock everybody. We are hosting the district tournament, and I don't want anybody to touch a ladder or a net unless it's us. That's kind of our real big goal – just one of many – but that's one that we fulfill. One of my goals every year is to go further than you did the year before, and also to move further than ever before. We've had two elite-eight teams at state, I would like to have a semi-final team, which would be two wins at the state tournament. This nucleus has never played/won a regional tournament final, so that's a goal – I'd like to see them make some noise there. This team has that potential, and the other conference we are matched up with at regionals has a lot of changes and graduated talent – we can match up well, it's just a question of where we are at as a team in February. Are we confident, are we a one-seed or a four? We'll know more the first time we get punched in the mouth. I really think we will respond better this year."

Martin said the squads have seen differing results the past two seasons – a good first half and fading second half two years ago, and a lackluster first half with a furious rally in the second half last season.

"If we can just put two competent halves together ... also who is hosting the tournament plays some part – if it's someone local, travel time is less and that is awesome."

Acorn has left the conference for this classification schedule, so in breaking down the conference foes this season, Martin had the follow-

Cutter Morning Star – They have a lot of kids coming back, and a six-foot center ... they have a new coach and he said they are still putting it together ... they'll be pretty decent.

Mountain Pine – When they were in our conference previously, they beat Dierks in junior high, and a couple of those girls are still left. They lost a few of those players to transfers. They have a few solid players, but a new coach, so again don't really know what to expect.

Dierks – Has about eight or nine kids, with two freshmen moveups they will try to lean on. So, our goal will be to try to take those freshmen out of their place.

Caddo Hills/Foreman/Spring Hill/Horatio – They are all super young, graduated a ton of seniors ... new coach at Foreman. It's a lot of curiosity ... I know their personnel, but you just never know what anybody's going to want to do. Just like us - last year we were in manto-man for 28 games, and that's our secondary defense this year.

Overall, Martin feels good about her squad in conference this season.

"We'll just have to play it by ear – if we stay healthy and level headed, I think we have a good shot of winning conference and district. We have to avoid bad shooting nights as much as possible when not possible, we have fight through to find other ways to win. I do think we are one of the top teams ... maybe Cutter who is coming out of a tough conference and has a lot returning, or maybe Dierks with the two really good freshmen. That's kind of the top three."

She said the schedule was set up this season to better help the team – including the creation of the Murfreesboro Girls' Classic that opened

"The past few seasons we have tried to kinda wait on football to end in mid-November, but this year we designed it to get games before."

She said that classic was designed to feature programs on the upswing, that also might have issues waiting for better football teams – including Mineral Springs and Magnet Cove. Blevins was included being "right down the road" and Umpire was included after a scheduling conflict with another squad.

"We were just trying to get the ball into the girls' hands while football was still going on."

The Lady Rattlers have five seniors this season, and were made available for interview by Martin. Jamie Howell, who was at work at the time of the interview, submitted a written state-

Howell missed last season with an injury and said she was looking forward to the season.

"I am excited about being able to play my last season. I am also excited for how experienced our team is this year. I feel pretty confident coming back after an injury recovery ... I'm ready to get back in it and play my hardest to make up for the season I missed. I'm glad we have many seniors – that makes us more experienced especially considering we have been playing together for many years. I also think it will push us to play our best and value our minutes.'

CHLOE SCOGGIN

The team's point guard said her growth was largely due to experience.

"It's more confidence – in junior high I thought I was good, but I didn't know I could dribble and penetrate like I can now. This year is about putting it all together and going from there."

Martin said Scoggin focused on basketball this past offseason - along with teammate Howell. However, while Howell was still "in PT [physical therapy] mode a little bit," Scoggin "got to go through a lot of the Kade Caldwell collegiate drills we were doing."

"She got a lot more confident, and once she figured out she could do it, I think that displays her just saying 'yeah, I can turn it up a notch,'"

Scoggin said her focus this season – on a personal level – was "less turnovers, more assists – always more assists – and be a consistent scoring threat each game."

However, when asked if she was more worried about assists than points, Scoggin was both succinct and definitive.

"Not really," she said with a laugh.

Scoggin said a successful season would include winning district, going to the regional tournament and a spot in the state tournament.

"I'll be fine with whatever else after that, regardless. I'm just excited for the season to get started."

Holt said she has team goals of working together effectively, push the ball whenever possible and to extend the season as long as possible.

Personally, she hopes to "be a better teammate for the team," and to perform as well as possible in her senior season.

Asked if there was any ultimate goals in the vein of scoring 40 points in a game, Holt admits she's not really built like that.

Holt said offseason work has included "having the ball in her hands more" and hopes to be more of scoring threat this season. "That's really one of my goals this season." Martin said Holt and Natalie Perrin had largely switched positions on the court for this version of the team, placing Holt much more often in a guard position. "That's why she has a lot more ball handling responsibility," said Martin. "She's doing really good at it." Holt admitted she enjoyed added responsibility of play creation, and while she verbally shied away from "being the center of attention" she did confess the contradiction that in a situation of being down one point with twenty seconds left, she did want to be the one to take a

"I feel more comfortable personally with the ball in my hand, but I don't really like being the focus of the crowd. I don't feed off the crowd – I feed off my own energy."

"She just doesn't care about the surrounding mess," Martin added. "She just ignores all the noise and focuses on her teammates. All players have to deal with emotion – internal and external – what have you. If I had an award at the sports banquet for ice in the veins or calm as a cucumber, it would be Jocee. You can't really get her high, and you can't really get her low. She's so even keeled, so she's being honest when she says she doesn't care about what's going on around her." Ultimately, Holt said she wants to maximize the team's skills into the best possible finish.

IENNA MAY

May was asked if she was the best three-point shooter on the team – she just made a face. "I've never had the most three-pointers made." Well, that changes this year, right?

"Yeah," May said with a laugh. "Since I struggle with confidence, it's what I've worked on this offseason. I've always held back from shooting, because once I missed a three, I wouldn't shoot anymore. But, you miss every shot you

May does not lack for confidence on the defensive side of the ball, however, so she admits much of her offseason has focused on shooting.

She says – for her – it's not about the points per game, but preferably a higher shooting percentage and being a better all-around player.

"Trusting my teammates is key for me," May admits. "They've played as many games as I

Her teammates added her leadership skills as her biggest contribution to the squad.

May said the biggest attributes to being a leader on the court was effective communication, and that it worked both ways.

"You have to give teammates praise, but you also have to hold them accountable. When they are doing something wrong, you have to tell them or they won't know to change what they are doing.

Off the court, being a good example was key in May's mind.

"I think we've been trying to hold each other more accountable before we even get to the game," said Martin of her squad. "We've had those talks, gotten mad at each other in practice, and had to buckle down. I want to give them leeway in the huddle during the season after the message/concept/strategy is given. I think they have responded well thus far ... but some days I think Chloe wants to punch me," said Martin.

While she admits she can be hard on all of her players, she confesses she can be hardest on Scoggin and May.

"With Jenna, it's about 'you better get all this together' and put a little pressure on her to peer lead a little more. I rip into her when she's throwing her hands up. With Chloe I like to work on her mental toughness a little bit. Sometimes that's just 'get off the floor' and we are working on being an impact as soon as she returns to the game – that's something she hasn't been able to do in the past. For her to have some growth there, that's me just poking the bear, especially in offseason when it was just me and her, I'd get her so frustrated she'd just want to go home for the day, and then get her to push through that. That's a goal we've been working on as far as leadership.

May said she has team goals of pushing the ball as much as due to the team's physical ability to do so.

"We've done a lot of cardio work, and we can use that to our advantage – being more in shape than the other team."

To borrow a phrase from Rattler football coach Brad Chesshir - "they're tired, we're not." "And, of course, make it as far as we can,"

Martin said she had hopes of both the Rattlers and Lady Rattlers basketball teams making state this season.

"We've been there at separate times, but we've never had our school do it at the same year. That would be really cool for the seniors that have all worked hard to have that feeling and representing for the town for both teams. We'll see how it goes."

NATALIE PERRIN

Perrin described herself as the team's "hustler and trash bucket getter."

She also serves as the glue that holds the team together by being the calming soul.

"I can keep peace between the team," she said with a smile. Perrin, like May, also has worked on offensive confidence going into this season. "I'm more of a defensive person," she said. "When I do well on defense, it transitions into my offensive game." She thinks her new position this season as a guard/forward combo (especially the latter) will allow her to impact the game even more in the form of "steals and trash buckets."

Martin said all work this offseason about positional flexibility was pointed toward "going fast" and relying on that more than overall

"We want to keep you as far way from the basket as possible. We don't want to let teams catch the ball on the block and play one on one. We want teams to have to make decisions 20-90 feet away from the goal. We'll keep the pressure on them and go from there," Martin said, noting her roster was not blessed with a great amount of height.

"That's why we've been doing speed work, agility work, cutting work ... allowing us to better be able to press. They are responding really well to that. The one thing I can see as a weakness for us – especially early in the season – is that we just put one of our better rebounders (Perrin) at the top of our defense. That means that everybody has go to step up, because if we can't rebound the ball, we can't get the ball up the court. So, we are intentionally doing things - it used to be Natalie's job, but now it's Jocee's - when we are looking to run, but when we get back to a half court set, it reverts to normal. We will have to cognitively play a lot smarter this year, and can, which is awesome. So, that might be a weakness early, but I don't know many coaches after the first few games that would say their rebounding was 'awesome.' That will be the big kicker – rebounding to go fast – so we will see how that goes."

Perrin said her greatest focus this offseason was her mentality for the game and to grow in-

"If I get frustrated about something, I have to keep pushing." But it's not necessarily about making yourself get frustrated - some of it is just letting things

"With Natalie, and all of us, last year was frustrating, so we are all trying to have the mentality of letting that year go and living up to what we feel we can be," said Martin.

Perrin, like her teammates, wants to take the season as deep into March as possible, but also wants to see the effort blossom into results for herself and her teammates.

"I want to see the growth I've seen in practice, between me an all my teammates, translate into the games." Martin said that was a good statement, and is looking forward to the first real adversity her team faces.

"When we play a good team, I'm looking forward to what we will do. Are we gonna melt and just be the same-old same-old, or are we gonna to step up and say 'we can do this?' I'm excited to see that answer."

Martin said that answer could come as soon as December 6 when the team will host Spring Hill in the opening conference tilt. "That's the game I have circled that we will figure out what we are made of.

"I want to be cutthroat this year – if we don't want to go back to being just one of those teams like the past two years. I've not mentioned the names Rhealee Campbell, Lainie Baxter or Emma Corbitt. That had to come to an end. It's more about what we're going to do – the players that are here. We are doing some things we have done in the past, but this is their team. I don't want to be scared to play any team, I don't want them to be so frustrated during a game they have to shut down and just take L's [losses]. I do want the teamwork to be better, and I'm seeing those things. We are just ready to play anyone besides ourselves and the [Rattler] boys."

Perrin concluding by stating that the seniors' familiarity with each other would be a big factor this season.

"Having all been teammates since seventh grade, we haven't lost any of us – we've always been together. Being seniors in our last year, that will really help us gel."

The seniors interviewed all agreed that having Howell back this season was a big deal and would definitively help on the court during the "Last year it was a case of a lot of the things we worked on during the summer, we then had to go in a different direction after she got hurt. It definitely frustrated us on a few things and there was several times I just had to say 'we can't do that tonight' and playing our defense based on their offense as opposed to what we wanted to do. Now, with Jamie back, I just want to do our stuff and make them change. Hopefully, that's where we will be at."

The team also features two juniors that will be huge contributors to any meaningful success the team has this season.

Sydney Braden, a parttime center starter last season, has improved her footwork and toughness in the offseason, according to Martin.

"She has been responding well to that. She's been doing some really good stuff - her man-toman defense looks a lot better. She used to get down on herself, and I haven't noticed that this year – she looks a lot more confident. She really mixes well with the seniors when she's on the court with them, and doesn't look rattled in that group this year. She knows she doesn't have a senior that's going to help her [or conversely, hurt her for playing time] and she is the leader to the younger sophomore centers. Her experience last year helped her go through some speed bumps, and I think that will pay off for her to have a more productive year. She's had a really good summer and offseason."

Faith Teel has been really good in practice, after summer plans took away from some of her work with the team.

"I'm excited to see what she can do with her minutes, and see if she can keep her confidence as well as she has thus far. She looks good in live work and her man-to-man has improved, but I think our zone primary defense has really helped her, cause that's the stuff she did in eighth and ninth grade - she's more confident with it."

BLACK STRIPE PROGRAM

For the past two seasons the Lady Rattlers have instituted a "black stripe" program, a play off Ohio State's program for freshmen.

"It's integrity stuff, trying to become better teammates - are you being consistent in your approach, your coachability, your communication, your attitude, your effort? It's not just 'oh, you had a great practice today' but more of a constant thing. Some of the eighth and ninth graders are getting really good at the concept, and senior had just had a few to lose their stripe before the season started. It's tough to get it cut off, and that's the point of it. We are trying to mold and shape them without them even consciously realizing it that they are becoming better humans and teammates, and that those qualities will also pay off outside the court. I love the programs, it's good for them and it's tough ... we didn't get everyone to cut theirs off last year, and it might not happen this year. We want it to be earned, and it has to take some time to accomplish it," said Martin.

ODDS AND ENDS

Perrin, Holt and May were named as the team's captains for this season prior to the sea-

"They are such veterans, and their mentality has been so much better this offseason," said

Martin said the team had one transfer, Laini Liggin, previously of Kirby.

'Academically she wanted to come back over here, and she's been with us since August. She's our only guard in the sophomore group."

Martin said sophomores Kinslee Howell and Gianna Draper were also liable to "get good minutes" this season, the latter of which should return by the "heart of conference play."

Second state backroad biking tour to make stop in Pike County in 2025

ARKANSAS -- Ozark Foundation's second annual Arkansas Graveler, a five-day bike journey across county and forest backroads from Ouachita National Forest in western Arkansas to scenic Greers Ferry Lake in north central Arkansas, will take place June 3-8, 2025.

The event will begin in Mena on June 3 and finish in Heber Springs on June 8. The course is known as The Bigfoot Route.

Approximately 400 touring and recreational cyclists from across the country are expected to participate in the ride which will include four stops in host communities along the route.

- Day 1 Mena to Glenwood (61 miles)
- Day 2 Glenwood to Hot Springs (63 miles) • Day 3 – Hot Springs (participants can opt to ride in the Ouachita National Forest or explore historic Hot Springs and Hot Springs National Park) • Day 4 – Hot Springs to Morrilton (72 miles)

• Day 5 - Morrilton to Heber Springs (73

"Arkansas Graveler will showcase and celebrate the best of Arkansas – its natural beauty, culture, and hospitality – in a most unique and magnificent way," said Scotti Moody, Director of Events and Development for Ozark Foundation. "While this route will present an incredibly epic challenge for cyclists from around the world, we hope they return home having felt that the Arkansas Graveler is so much more than a ride."

The inaugural 2024 event, which ran through northern Arkansas, attracted 265 touring and recreational cyclists from 35 states. Approximately 25% of the participants were female, which is higher than the average cycling event.

Ozark Foundation learned lessons from the first event that Moody believes will make the 2025 event even more successful.

"First of all, this year's Arkansas Graveler will happen a few weeks earlier so as to attempt to avoid the stifling heat and humidity of Arkansas summers," she said. "We are also shortening the event by a day and offering a flex day for rest and relaxation at the midway

As with the 2024 event, host communities will benefit greatly from the economic impact of cyclists seeking food and unique experiences within each community.

Last year, the Arkansas Graveler giveback program donated bikes to rural communities through the non-profit organization, Pedal It Forward. Graveler participants also helped pack more than 15,000 meals for residents in Searcy County.

Arkansas has approximately 69,000 miles of unpaved roads, according to the Arkansas Department of Agriculture.

Gravel is one of cycling's fastest-growing sectors. Shea Lewis, Secretary of the Arkansas Department of Parks, Heritage and Tourism, says Arkansas is well-positioned to become a leading destination.

Growing Arkansas' outdoor economy is a priority for Governor Huckabee Sarah Sanders, and she established the Natural State Initiative to help coordinate public and private resources to en-

Tips for mindful eating this Thanksgiving

BY REBEKAH HALL

U of A System Division of Agriculture

LITTLE ROCK — The Thanksgiving holiday brings family and friends together to celebrate gratitude, but the festivities can be difficult for people with concerns about food or eating. It's important to approach the day's meal mindfully and aim for a "middle ground" between overeating or being too restrictive.

Quad Whitson, extension culinary nutrition program associate for the University of Arkansas System Division of Agriculture, said the Thanksgiving holiday can be a challenging day

"Holidays tend to bring out an all-or-nothing mindset towards eating, but I truly believe there is a middle ground," Whitson said. "This middle ground is a space where both your mind and body can remain healthy. For some people, including those with diet-related medical conditions such as diabetes, this may require some thoughtful planning and preparation — but everyone can make choices to make Thanksgiving Day one to enjoy."

Whitson suggested people keep the following tips in mind:

• Eat a good breakfast. "Getting into the habit of 'saving room for a big meal' can lead to showing up to Thanksgiving dinner overly hungry," Whitson said. "This can make us be less mindful when eating and we end up eating past the point of comfort, then we're miserable for the rest of the day." Instead, Whitson said starting the day with a bowl of oatmeal and fruit or Greek vogurt with granola can help one "make more intentional choices throughout the day."

• Plan ahead. "Every family has the foods they traditionally prepare on Thanksgiving," Whitson said. "By keeping those foods in mind, you can better organize your plate to model the USDA's MyPlate recommendations, which organizes half of the plate with colorful fruits and vegetables and fills the rest with whole grains and protein of your choice."

• Don't overthink it. Rather than focusing on individual components of the plate — such as choosing white meat from the turkey instead of dark meat, solely because it has less fat — Whitson said people should focus on the whole plate and keep portion sizes reasonable. "It's okay to have a few bites of everything, if that's what you'd like," he said. "Remember to be mindful during the meal by eating slowly, checking in with yourself about how you feel, and pause to appreciate your food and consider all the moving parts it took to bring the meal

• Save room for dessert. "It is possible to enjoy desserts without going overboard," Whitson said. "Holiday foods highlight another integral portion of healthy eating, which goes beyond nourishing us physically — cultural traditions and foods nourish the soul and are just as beneficial. Remember, one slice of sweet potato pie isn't going to make or break the progress you've made on your health."

 Remember why you're there. "When all things are said and done, remembering why you and your loved ones come together on this day is the most important," Whitson said. "Take time to enjoy the day and focus on your relationships with the people you care about."

To further ease anxiety about the meal and to help the body physically, Whitson also suggested people take an after-dinner walk with a friend, family member or pet.

"Participating in low-impact exercise such as walking helps improve digestion," he said. "Walking after a meal helps stimulate the stomach and intestines, and it helps aid in the movement of food through the digestive system quicker. It may also help with bloating that can occur after eating a meal."

Investing in education makes a great gift option

LITTLE ROCK -- The Arkansas Brighter Future 529 Plan makes saving for a loved one's education a collaborative effort through Ugift.

This easy-to-use feature, available with all 529 accounts, allows anyone to contribute to a loved one's education savings for milestones and holidays. Plus, contributors are eligible to take advantage of state and federal tax benefits. The Arkansas Brighter Future 529 Plan, administered by the Treasurer of State's office, is a tax-deferred educational savings and investment tool. The funds in these accounts can be used at any accredited two- or four-year university, trade school, or K-12 private school, both in the U.S. and abroad, helping to ease the financial burden of education.

"An Arkansas Brighter Future 529 account offers beneficiaries the flexibility they need to pursue their dreams," said Program Director Fran Jansen. "Through Ugift, grandparents, family members and friends can contribute directly into a loved one's account, providing meaningful direction toward a brighter future.

Parents, grandparents and foster parents can open a 529 account for a child for as little as $25. Visit brighterfuturedirect529.com or call (800) 587-7301 to open an account and learn about the available investment options.

"That's beds that they don't have locally [at nursing homes] ... they need us to keep the going at home as long as possible." Hutson also added that the visits by delivery people were often the only person that many of the meal recipients would see during the week. "This is how we take care of them – the local churches [from which volunteer members to make deliveries] are our lifeline."

She relayed a story of how a local meal recipient was found recently after falling in their home. "While she did die from her injuries, at least she got to spend time with her family at the hospital as opposed to passing away by herself." In addition to changes in the delivery sector, meals served in the center will also face limitations. Takeout meals had been prohibited, and in person diners would face cuts as well. "From what I have been able to piece together, we'll be able to serve 55 hot meals a day (in their three opening per week on Mondays-Wednesdays) and have to turn away seniors thereafter. It's really hard to have to turn seniors away and tell them we can't help them. I did ask the AAA if they eat on the weekend."

Huston asked for the ability to utilize the county attorney as she begins to navigate the procedures of an election.

"We take pride in being a retirement town, but that means we have to take care of the seniors. We need to know the steps [for an election] so the voters can decide – and if there's a better al-

Hutson told the board that both Pike County senior centers cost around $700,000 together per year to operate.

ternative, I'm willing to listen. It's just that the reality is here, and the end of next year might call for tough decisions. The AAA has been seeking a provider for four months now and hasn't found one. We're to the point of change or perish."

The Murfreesboro center receives some funds from the City of Murfreesboro and both centers get some funds from Pike County via the Quorum Court. "They are the only ones trying to help," Huston said in commending the local governmental organizations.

Also, in addition, both centers are now receiving donated chicken from Tyson's and have applied for a grant from Tyson Foods that could total up to $50,000.

Wednesday, November 27, 2024

Justice of the Peace (J.P.) Paul Baker said that without exact figures, there was little the Quorum Court could directly do, but the court under general consensus (no vote was taken) did give Hutson their blessing to talk over the tax issue with their at-

"I just keep thinking that one day we will be that age," Baker said.

J.P. Johnny Plyler said a one-cent sale tax increase would raise more than 1 million dollars a year, with a half cent measure bringing in around $600,000.

"These [seniors] helped build the county for the last fifty years we need to help all we can," said Pike County Judge Eddie Howard. "We understand this is a desperate situation.

Huston said the effect of the centers' services shouldn't be underestimated in Pike County. "It's not just about money, it's about peoples' lives. We're going have to all get on the same page and come up with a solution, ultimately being unified or die. It's not going to get better by itself, and our residents aren't getting any younger." The court was told that CADC formerly had grantwriters to seek additional funds, but neither the centers nor the AAA had

In a separate interview, Huston told the newspaper that no fault should be directed toward the AAA, but rather toward the federal government, who has allowed the situation they now find themselves in to transpire. "In the big picture, we were dumped into the laps of the AAA after CADC decided not to be our funding providers any more. The current situation is not their fault, even though it's hard on the community. If we can't get some change, if this is the norm, who gets hurt? If someone doesn't step up, and we can't take back to lack of continued funding from the federal government, and the blame falls squarely on their shoulders. The AAA is doing all they can do under the circumstances, but it is an expensive proposition."

Ultimately, she said it was not a good time for seniors.

"There's not enough beds at nursing homes, there's no grocery store in Murfreesboro and there's no hope for better funding from the federal government – and those truths don't change the fact we are providing less meals. Limiting meals is detrimental, and it's borderline unacceptable for hot meals to be prohibi-

However, she wants people to know she's not lost hope.

"I'm not throwing my hands up ... we are in trouble, but we were already in trouble for a while now. I'll just be as patient as possible until we see how this all sorts out." She said one solution to the current situation was simple - take care of each other. "If you know someone who is having issues, reach out to your neighbor and help take care of their needs. There are two things a person must have to survive – food and water. They are a must to live. Help others and look out for your neighbors all you can. We can't ask the churches to do everything, and there aren't many other avenues."

Hutson said the Pike County Quorum Court has always been good to the centers, and said the people of Pike County have always stepped up to take care of their own.

"I'd love to hear any ideas about a solution, so just call us to help," Huston said.

The center in Murfreesboro can be reached at (870) 285-2312. She said call she's gotten in the last few weeks have been encouraging. "We have good hearted people willing to help, and all the calls tells me the community cares about us. I want to thank the people of the town for their concern – I appreciate it. We're all we have got. We are a retirement town and we need to take care of our elderly – I just want to see that. We need a place for them to come to, they have so much life left. If we lose the centers, what will we have left?
