Incident leads to assault charges

MURFREESBORO -- A Nashville has been charged in Pike County with aggravated assault on a family or household member following an incident on Nov. 10 on Muddy Fork Road.

Brandon Ray McMillian, 48, was charged Nov. 20.

According to case information, the Pike County Sheriff's Office was dispatched to Muddy Fork Road in reference to a vehicle wreck and possible assault. McMillian stated there had been a verbal altercation at his home involving himself and two other family members and that he had gotten into his vehicle to look for one of the relatives following the argument.

When he located the relative traveling on Muddy Fork Road, he turned around to pursue him and while doing so his Jeep made contact with the vehicle driven by the relative. The alleged contact caused the vehicle wreck.

Brandon also reportedly approached the vehicle and began striking the window and that the relative exited the vehicle and fled on foot into the woods and called his sister for help.

"Based on the statements obtained during the investigation and the evidence observed on scene, Brandon McMillian was placed under arrest."

Mayor-elect set to hit ground running

MURFREESBORO -- Mayoral-elect Jack Bonds is setting things in place prior to his official entrance to office on January 1.

Bonds will succeed current mayor Jim O'Neal in 2026 following his election earlier this month.

He had already been contacting property owners with unkempt properties in his effort to fulfill one of his campaign promises to clean up Murfreesboro

"I've made several contacts of people that have [problematic] lots or houses – that need work. It's been a very positive reception. We are lining up the ability for us to get volunteers – if anyone is interested in volunteering, I'd love to hear from them."

Bonds said some of the properties are owned by the elderly, who "are not able to keep up their properties as they would like to. In those instances, we are just going to help them – take the bull by the horns and get it done. It's a lot better than being abrasive. I'm excited about that."

The mayor-elect is also working on making a list of properties in distress that are owned by out-of-town entities, be they mortgage companies, other institutions or individuals.

"I'm not 100% sure how to approach that yet, but obviously a conversation is needed. It may have to go a lot further, but I'm not afraid of condemning a piece of property if we have to go that far." Bonds said. "We are going to clean up Murfreesboro – when I was meeting all the people around the town [prior to election] the two major concerns were cleaning up the town and drainage. If I heard that once, I heard it a hundred times. It was by far the biggest concerns because it affects us all, everyone who lives here."

For drainage, Bonds said the first order of business was to clear the super ditches with fire where needed outside of city limits to the river.

"We will need the fire department to help us, I spoke with the Pike County Judge [Eddie Howard] and he says it is a very economical way of doing it. It makes sense to me that until we get the super ditches cleaned out we really don't know the big issues with the water flow. We have to make certain that everything is open or flowing.

He said the ongoing burn ban might hold up progress on the project, but it would be accomplished as soon as possible once he gets into office. "We will act promptly once the burn ban is lifted."

Bonds said city crews have done a great job recently of cleaning up the super ditches within the city limits.

"They are doing a great job … Jeremy [Hughes] Has really knocked a lot of that out. So that's a good thing and great start."

Bonds said other ditches around town holding up flow would be addressed on a case by case basis.

He adds that at this moment there is no dedicated money for the city to upkeep of the super ditches.

"I want to change that, I want to create some fund we can put some money in and save it, so we can apply for grants and have matching money, so we have money to work, develop a plan and make it possible."

Any issues past debris halting flow, Bonds said the city will have to employ and engineer to know the "right thing to do, because water seeks its own level … and in all fairness, I'm not an engineer and I don't know one. The last thing we want to do is create a problem for someone else downstream."

Bonds' first day in office with city hall open will be Jan. 4.

While he will be available, either in office or by cell phone, he hopes to streamline some processes.

"If you need limbs picked up, there is no reason to contact Penny or I, the ultimate goal will be for you to go to Jeremy, who will be the guy to schedule limb pickups. So, why go through more than one person, to get something accomplished? That's some of the things I will start with – streamlining, making sure that things are proficient, and empowering people to do their jobs so they are better equipped to handle them. That means I will have to learn and understand everybody's job, which mean initially I have to be involved with what they are doing."

Bonds said that he felt keeping the city's citizens in the know was very important to him as well.

"I plan of giving reports to the public regularly, so they will know what we are doing. It's important for us to stay connected to the people because we are servants to the citizens. Additionally, I think that connection will resolve a lot of problems. If they know what we are doing and what is going on, if someone has a problem we can address it."

Bonds said one issue upcoming is animal control, which is currently operated through a contract with the City of Nashville. He said that the rates would soon be raised to $26,000, a significant raise over the past year's rates.

"It's an increase and just too much."

Bonds also hopes to instill some civic pride in the community.

"It will take the town, but we need to build some comraderie. I know a lot of places that when they have a festival at any time, people show up. In Murfreesboro we have the habit of not showing up, and e have to start showing up for things. If we want to change our town, and want to make out town better, and maintain the integrity of the town, the first step is that we are just going to have to show up. We are all going to have to work as a team to make things better."

Bonds said he plans on public forum lunches and coffees for people to interact with him in the future.

"I want access to the people and give them an opportunity to voice their opinions and thoughts. I love ideas. What can we do as a team to make this better? Don't just come with problems … also bring possible solutions and ideas. An idea kept to yourself has absolutely no value. I want everyone to know I'm very open door … we are all here and have a vested interest. I'm for the citizens of Murfreesboro, being a citizen myself, and I'm for us."

Growing gratitude: the 4-H way of giving thanks

As Thanksgiving approaches, many of us begin thinking about turkey, dressing, pumpkin pie, and gathering around the table with family and friends.

But, beyond the food and festivities, Thanksgiving is a time to reflect on our blessings, appreciate the people around us, and remember the importance of giving back. For Pike County 4-H, gratitude isn't something we celebrate just one day a year. It is something we strive to put into action every day.

The 4-H pledge reminds us to pledge our heads to clearer thinking, our hearts to greater loyalty, our hands to larger service, and our health to better living. While each of these promises plays an important role in developing young leaders, Thanksgiving is an especially meaningful time to focus on our hearts and hands.

Throughout the year, Pike County 4-H members have demonstrated what it means to have a heart for service. From collecting food for local Blessing Boxes to participating in community projects, our young people are learning that making a difference doesn't always require a grand gesture.

Sometimes, it is as simple as donating a box of cereal, lending a helping hand, or showing kindness to someone who needs encouragement. And perhaps that is one of the greatest lessons Thanksgiving can teach us: Being thankful for what we have should inspire us to help those who may have less.

Of course, none of these opportunities would be possible without the incredible support of our community. Pike County 4-H is blessed with volunteers, parents, club leaders, businesses, churches, and community partners who continually give their time, resources, and encouragement to help our young people succeed.

To every volunteer who has attended a meeting, every parent who has driven a child to an activity, every business that has sponsored an event, and every community member who has supported our programs — thank you. Your generosity does more than support 4-H activities. It helps shape the next generation of leaders.

We are also thankful for our 4-H members. Whether they are stepping outside their comfort zones to try something new, competing in an event, learning a life skill, or volunteering their time, they remind us that the future of Pike County is in good hands.

This Thanksgiving, I encourage everyone to find a small way to make a difference. Donate a food item, check on a neighbor, thank someone who has made an impact on your life, or simply spend a little extra time with someone who needs it.

After all, gratitude is more than saying "thank you." It is showing appreciation through our actions. As we gather around our Thanksgiving tables this year, may we remember that some of life's greatest blessings aren't the things we receive, but the opportunities we have to give. From our Pike County 4-H family to yours, Happy Thanksgiving! May your hearts be full, your blessings be many, and your hands always be ready to serve.

Many reasons to be thankful in our lives

BY JOHN BOOZMAN
U.S. Senator, Arkansas

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Every fall, as the seasons change and the leaves on our trees turn shades of red, orange and yellow, we are reminded that Thanksgiving is right around the corner. It is a holiday many of us look forward to each year. Whether we are gathering around the dinner table with family and friends, watching football or enjoying a homemade dish, this holiday gives us an opportunity to slow down and appreciate what matters most.

Thanksgiving is more than the rituals we have come to know, it is built on a foundation of rich and meaningful history.

The tradition of giving thanks for a successful harvest dates back long before our nation's independence. During the autumn of 1621, it's estimated that 90 members of the Wampanoag people joined 52 English settlers in what is now Plymouth, Massachusetts, to mark a successful harvest season. The gathering, which lasted several days, is widely remembered as the "First Thanksgiving."

In the years that followed, communities continued to set aside days to give thanks, each developing their own customs and traditions. During the American Revolution, the Continental Congress called for days of thanksgiving to recognize the important moments in our nation's early history. In 1789, President George Washington issued a proclamation designating November 26 as a National Day of Thanksgiving and Prayer.

However, it wasn't until 1827, that Sarah Josepha Hale began decades of advocating for a national Thanksgiving holiday. She believed that establishing a day of shared gratitude could help bring Americans together, so she wrote editorials, sent letters, and persistently reached out to presidents and other leaders to make her case.

Her efforts eventually reached President Abraham Lincoln. Amid the Civil War, Lincoln issued a proclamation in October 1863 calling on Americans to observe a National Day of Thanksgiving on the last Thursday of November. He recognized the importance of pausing to reflect on our blessings, even during some of the most difficult moments in our nation's history. That proclamation helped establish the annual tradition we continue to celebrate today.

It is remarkable to consider that the tradition of Thanksgiving predates our nation's 250 years of independence. Through generations of change, innovation and extraordinary achievements, the value in gathering to acknowledge blessings big and small has remained a constant part of American culture.

Here in Arkansas, we have so much to be thankful for. We are fortunate to live in a state with hardworking families, strong communities and people who look out for their neighbors. From the farmers who work tirelessly to provide the food on our tables to teachers, health care professionals, first responders, members of our military and countless volunteers who serve others, The Natural State is strengthened by people who make a difference every day.

I am especially grateful for the opportunity to represent you in the United States Senate. Traveling throughout the state and meeting with Arkansans is a constant reminder of what makes it incredibly special.

Thanksgiving can also encourage us to be mindful that gratitude should extend beyond a single day. Taking time to recognize the people who have made a difference in our lives, lending a helping hand to someone in need and showing appreciation for those who serve our communities are meaningful ways to carry the spirit of the holiday throughout the year.

As families and friends gather this Thanksgiving, I hope you have opportunities to enjoy time with loved ones, reflect on the blessings in your life and appreciate the people who make each day a little brighter. If you cannot be home with family and friends because of service to our country or keeping our communities safe, we thank you and owe you a special debt of gratitude.

From my family to yours, I wish everyone across Arkansas a safe, happy and blessed Thanksgiving. May we never lose sight of the many reasons we have to be thankful.

Airport reminds of rules for those flying for holidays

LITTLE ROCK -- The Transportation Security Administration expects a slight increase in departing passengers at Clinton National Airport during the Thanksgiving holiday travel period. An estimated 47,571 passengers are projected to be screened at the Little Rock airport between Friday, Nov. 20 and Tuesday, Dec. 1.

Sunday, Nov. 29 is expected to be the airport's busiest travel day, with more than 5,200 departing passengers. Monday, Nov. 30 is also projected to be busy, with nearly 4,800 passengers expected to pass through the TSA security checkpoint.

Thanksgiving travel marks the beginning of the holiday travel season, and passengers are encouraged to plan ahead for a smooth, stress-free experience. Airlines recommend arriving at least two hours before scheduled departure, especially during peak times such as early mornings, or when checking a bag.

Additional reminders for holiday travelers include:

• Double-check your identification. Arkansas Mobile ID is accepted for identity verification at the TSA checkpoint. Travelers without a REAL ID-compliant form of identification should complete TSA's ConfirmID process online before heading to the airport.

• Remember the liquid limit. Liquids, gels or aerosols in carry-on bags must be in containers of 3.4 ounces or less and fit inside a single quart-size bag.

• Empty your water bottle. Bring a reusable water bottle but make sure it's empty before going through security. It can be refilled after screening.

• Watch out for prohibited items. Empty luggage before packing to ensure firearms and other prohibited items are not accidentally left inside. Travelers with questions about permitted and prohibited items can visit tsa.gov for a full list and additional travel guidance.

• Know before you go. Download your airline's mobile app to stay up to date on flight information and visit the airport's website for available parking options.

Guests assisting departing passengers or meeting arriving ones can park free of charge for the first 45 minutes in the East Hourly Lot, conveniently located directly in front of the ticket lobby.

Whether you're flying out for the holidays or welcoming loved ones home to Arkansas, Clinton National Airport wishes everyone a safe and happy Thanksgiving holiday.

State legislature sets committee positions for current session

STATE CAPITOL WEEK IN REVIEW

LITTLE ROCK -- The Arkansas Senate has completed its organizational work ahead of the 96th General Assembly, which convenes Jan. 11, finalizing committee assignments and leadership positions that will help guide legislative debate and policymaking during the upcoming session.

Under Senate rules, committee assignments are based on seniority. Beginning with the most senior member, each senator selects a committee. After every senator has chosen, the process repeats in the same order until committee rosters are filled. Assignments are made at the beginning of each legislative session.

Among the most influential standing committees is Public Health, Welfare and Labor, chaired by Sen. Missy Irvin with Sen. Clint Penzo serving as vice chair. The committee handles legislation involving public health, mental health services, aging issues, environmental concerns and labor relations.

The Education Committee will be led by Sen. Breanne Davis, with Sen. Dan Sullivan serving as vice chair. The panel oversees legislation affecting public schools, higher education, vocational training and private educational institutions.

Sen. Ricky Hill will chair Agriculture, Forestry and Economic Development, assisted by Vice Chair Matt Stone. The committee considers issues involving agriculture, forestry, natural resources, oil and gas development, parks and economic development.

Sen. Dave Wallace will chair City, County and Local Affairs, with Sen. Joshua Bryant as vice chair. Revenue and Tax will be chaired by Sen. Terry Rice with Sen. Steve Crowell serving as vice chair.

The Judiciary Committee, one of the Senate's busiest panels, will be chaired by Sen. Alan Clark and vice-chaired by Sen. Rodney Wright. Insurance and Commerce will be led by Sen. Bart Hester, with Sen. Matt McKee as vice chair.

Sen. Jim Dotson will chair State Agencies and Governmental Affairs, joined by Sen. John Payton as vice chair. The committee handles election laws, ethics issues, constitutional amendments and matters related to state government. Transportation, Technology and Legislative Affairs will be chaired by Sen. Mark Johnson.

The Joint Budget Committee will be co-chaired by Sen. Jimmy Hickey Jr., with Sen. Jim Petty serving as co-vice chair. The Legislative Joint Auditing Committee will be co-chaired by Sen. Jim Dotson and Sen. Brad C. Simon. The Arkansas Legislative Council will be co-chaired by Sen. Justin Boyd, with Sen. Missy Irvin serving as co-vice chair.

Several additional committees will play key roles during the session. Sen. Scott Flippo and Sen. Jessie McGruder will lead Joint Performance Review, which evaluates state agency opera-

Falling stars

The annual Leonid meteor shower (so named because the place many of the meteors seem to come from is located in the constellation Leo) peaked this year on November 17-18. As predicted, it was a minimal event this year. The Earth, however, does occasionally pass through a large concentration of dust and debris left over from passing comets, and 2026 is the 50th anniversary of the Leonid meteor shower that peaked on November 12-13 in 1966. The difference between this year's Leonids and the one 50 years ago is that the shower of 1966 became a storm.

There are numerous eyewitness accounts of it from across the United States. A man living in Mississippi, who was nine years old at the time, tells of he and two friends walking down a gravel road when they began to hear noises that he describes as being like the zipping sound flaming drops make when they fall from a burning nylon rope. They watched the show while lying in a field for a few hours. He said it was as if every star was falling from the sky. Later, he said, there was the distinct smell of sulphur in the air.

It has been estimated that this storm produced an astounding 40 meteors per second. That adds up to 2,400 per minute or 144,000 per hour. Astronomers are predicting potentially large Leonid displays in 2033 and 2034 that could produce meteor rates of 1000 or more per hour. It is too early to say if a repeat of 1966 is in the offing, but it is worth marking your calendar as a reminder to take a look.

The Leonids also stormed over our area on November 13, 1833, when Arkansas was working on becoming a state (which occurred on June 19, 1836). The "Night of Falling Stars" had 50,000 to 240,000 meteors per hour which eyewitness accounts described as both fascinating and frightening.

By the way, the second largest witnessed meteorite recovered in North America (what you call a piece of meteor that survives the fall through our atmosphere) made an 8 foot crater in a field near Paragould, Arkansas on February 17, 1930.

The stars in the night sky lately are not falling, but they might appear to be moving swiftly across the sky, because the most recent estimates of the number of satellites over your head at any given time as you stargaze is 700. You may not be able to see all of them, but they are there, and the number is increasing almost daily.

The Moon was full on November 24, but it is 99% illuminated on the 25th rising at about 6 p.m. This Beaver Moon is also a "super moon."

UAMS HOUSE CALL

Dr. Bala Simon is an associate professor in the Department of Family and Preventive Medicine in the College of Medicine at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences.

Q: What is COPD and how is it treated?

A: Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) refers to a group of chronic conditions that affect lung function. COPD causes inflammation and swelling inside the lungs, making it more difficult to breathe. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that more than 16 million Americans are affected by COPD.

Chronic bronchitis and emphysema are the two most common types of COPD. Thick mucus in the airways and loss of elasticity in the airways from these illness restrict airflow in the lungs. Smoking, exposure to dust and fumes, and toxins in the air are some causes of COPD. The condition affects women more than men, and those who are over the age of 65 are more at risk.

COPD symptoms include shortness of breath, coughing up thick mucus, fatigue, swelling in the lower legs, or wheezing or whistling when breathing. Frequent coughing, a collapsed lung, low levels of oxygen in the blood, pneumonia, and pulmonary hypertension are some possible complications of COPD.

Treatment for COPD focuses on managing symptoms. Bronchodilators to relax muscles around the airways, inhaled steroids to reduce inflammation, and quitting smoking are some methods to treat COPD. Visit your healthcare provider to develop a plan, particularly if symptoms persist.

Thanksgiving tips -- don't cook it all that day and let guests help

BY MARY HIGHTOWER
University of Arkansas Division of Agriculture

LITTLE ROCK — A clear plan, slow cookers and microwaves could be your best friends when it comes to a big Thanksgiving gathering, said Quad Whitson, extension instructor of culinary nutrition, hospitality and tourism for the University of Arkansas Division of Agriculture.

Whitson's rule No. 1: Don't cook everything on Thanksgiving Day.

Prep for what is typically the year's biggest food holiday should start many days before, by planning the menu.

"Keep your Thanksgiving menu manageable," he said. "Identify your family favorites and expand from there so it's not too overwhelming."

"Make items like desserts, cold foods, cranberry sauce, etc., that store well for a day or two, ahead of time," Whitson said.

Based on the planned menu, work out the timings for which items need to go in the oven.

"Know what all needs to go in the oven — if your turkey, sweet potatoes, casserole, etc., all need time in the oven, identify when each needs to go in before you begin cooking," Whitson said.

Before it goes into the oven, be sure to "thaw your turkey early," he said. "Frozen turkeys can take several days to thaw in your fridge, depending on its size. The last thing anyone wants is their turkey still frozen in the middle on Thanksgiving Eve."

Once the cooking begins, "use a food thermometer with any and all foods," Whitson said. "Don't rely only on the turkey's timer, color, or number of hours it has cooked. Use a thermometer to make sure it has reached a safe temperature."

Meal planning goes further than the food itself.

"Decide what serving dishes you'll be using," Whitson said. "Know what bowl, platter and serving utensils you'll be using for each dish before you begin cooking."

During meal prep, Whitson recommends cleaning as you go.

"Clear countertops, put up ingredients you're no longer using and keep your dirty dishes under control," he said. "A little cleanup along the way can give you more space and make the rest of your cooking easier.

THANKSGIVING DAY

The host also needs to consider how to organize the meal come Thanksgiving Day.

"Make sure to use every appliance you have," Whitson said. "Slow cookers can hold items like mashed potatoes, candied yams and other hot foods. The microwave is the perfect sidekick to quickly reheat foods when needed."

The aftermath of any big meal also means leftovers.

Whitson said "don't leave leftovers out all day. Once everyone has eaten, begin putting perishable foods away instead of waiting until later."

When it comes to setting the table and cleanup, "share the load," he said. "Allow others to help with tasks you are comfortable with to help reduce the pressure.

"Having others do simple tasks like setting the table, arranging desserts and filling glasses can help divide the workload," Whitson said.

Indulge, but don't over do it on Thanksgiving

BY SARAH CATO
University of Arkansas Division of Agriculture

LITTLE ROCK — Although Thanksgiving is a time centered around food, extension experts say there are ways to keep your health in mind while enjoying the festive feasts.

"We don't have to make huge, sweeping health decisions during the holidays, but there are ways to take small steps to keep our health in mind," said Lida Araghi, extension nutrition and food safety specialist for the University of Arkansas Division of Agriculture.

SMALL ADJUSTMENTS

"I'd rather make small adjustments than fully replace favorite foods, because most traditional Thanksgiving foods start out healthy," Araghi said. "Turkey, sweet potatoes and green beans are great examples. It's the added sugar, saturated fat and sodium in the preparation that add up."

A few easy swaps Araghi recommends are:

• Sweet potatoes: Roast or mash the sweet potatoes with cinnamon and a little butter instead of topping them with marshmallows and brown sugar.

• Green bean casserole: Try fresh or frozen green beans sauteed with garlic and toasted almonds in place of the canned soup and fried onions.

• Mashed potatoes: Use low-fat milk or broth in place of some of the butter and cream and leave some of the skins on for extra fiber.

• Stuffing: Use whole-grain bread, low-sodium broth and extra vegetables such as celery, onions and mushrooms.

• Gravy: Skim the fat from the drippings before making it and use low-sodium broth.

• Cranberry sauce: Homemade cranberry sauce lets you cut the sugar, often by a third or more.

• Desserts: Pumpkin pie is usually lower in calories and added sugar than pecan pie.

• Drinks: Choose water, unsweetened tea or sparkling water in place of sweet tea, soda and punch.

AVOID OVEREATING

In addition to making healthy swaps, Araghi recommends taking small steps to avoid overeating this holiday season.

"We really want to avoid skipping meals to 'save up' for the big dinner," she said. "Arriving overly hungry makes it much harder to eat at a comfortable pace. Eat a balanced breakfast and a light snack if the meal is later in the day."

Araghi also suggests looking over all the food available before filling your plate, using a smaller plate if one is available, and drinking water throughout the day and with the meal.

She also recommends following MyPlate guidelines, by "filling half your plate with vegetables and fruit and splitting the other half between turkey and starchy sides.

"Eating slowly and enjoying conversation can help as well," she said. "It takes about 20 minutes for your brain to register that you're full, so wait before going back for seconds. Move away from the table after you've finished so you aren't nibbling out of habit."

Araghi also reminds cooks to keep the meal safe. "Cook the turkey to 165 degrees Fahrenheit, measured with a food thermometer in the thickest part," she said. "Refrigerate leftovers within two hours and use them within three to four days."

DON'T FORGET TO ENJOY YOURSELF

Araghi's biggest message this holiday season is to remember that Thanksgiving is just one meal.

"One day of eating more than usual will not undo healthy habits," she said. "What matters is what we do most days. So, enjoy your favorite foods without guilt and return to your normal routine at the next meal."

Happy Thanksgiving
from our family to yours!

Costs of Thanksgiving meal rises for 2026

BY CAMERON CASTILLO

FARM BUREAU INSURANCE

For the first time since 2022, American shoppers will see an increase in the price of goods for Thanksgiving dinner. Results from the American Farm Bureau Federation's 41st annual Thanksgiving dinner cost survey indicate that the price of a Thanksgiving dinner for 10 people averages $58.63, up 6% from a year ago.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

• Americans cooking a Thanksgiving dinner will face higher prices overall this year, with the cost of the average 10-person dinner increasing by 6% from 2025 to $5.86 per person.

• Despite the increase from 2025, the cost of this year's Thanksgiving dinner sits more than 8% lower than the record high experienced in 2022.

• The overall increase for 2026 is largely driven by increased prices for Thanksgiving staples such as turkey, milk, rolls and cranberries.

• Thanksgiving dinners in the Northeast are set to be the most expensive; while dinners in the South will again be the least expensive in the country.

For the first time since 2022, American shoppers will see an increase in the price of goods for Thanksgiving dinner. Results from the American Farm Bureau Federation's 41st annual Thanksgiving dinner cost survey indicate that the price of a Thanksgiving dinner for 10 people averages $58.63, up 6% from a year ago.

OVER FOUR DECADES OF AFBF THANKSGIVING SURVEYS

Each November, as millions of Americans prepare to gather with their family and friends to celebrate Thanksgiving, hundreds of volunteer shoppers from all 50 states and Puerto Rico participate in AFBF's annual Thanksgiving dinner cost survey. Every year since 1986, shoppers have reported prices for a standard list of items at their local grocery store for a variety of ingredients used to craft Thanksgiving favorites. Up until 2018, the survey included carrots, celery, cranberries, cubed stuffing, dinner rolls, frozen green peas, sweet potatoes, pumpkin pie mix, frozen pie crusts, whole milk, heavy whipping cream, and the ubiquitous American holiday staple: turkey. In 2018, AFBF added ham, frozen green beans and russet potatoes to better reflect the price of an all-American Thanksgiving meal.

While the overall cost of Thanksgiving dinner ticked upward in 2026, prices for several items included in the survey decreased slightly from 2025. A vegetable tray containing celery and carrots posted the largest percentage decline in this year's survey, with a 3.7% decrease compared to a year ago. In terms of absolute dollar changes, frozen pie crusts had the sharpest decrease, posting a decrease of 9 cents compared to a year ago. The survey bodes well for pumpkin pie enthusiasts, who will enjoy a lower overall cost for their beloved dessert despite an increase in the cost of pumpkin pie mix, as heavy whipping cream is also cheaper in 2026 compared to last year.

HIGHER PRICES FOR SEVERAL THANKSGIVING FAVORITES

The overall cost of a 10-person Thanksgiving dinner increased for 2026, largely fueled by increases in items key to the Turkey Day menu. The most notable increase for 2026 is the turkey itself, with the average price of a 16 pound frozen bird being $23.68, an increase of $2.38 (10%) from 2025. As discussed in a recent Farm Bureau Intel, strong demand and tight inventories have led to increased prices for turkey in 2026.

Apart from turkey, other widely featured Thanksgiving items increased in this year's survey. Grocery store prices for boneless ham, milk, dinner rolls, sweet potatoes, russet potatoes, frozen peas, frozen green beans, cranberries, and cubed stuffing (known in some regions as "dressing") all increased in 2026.

Higher prices for these items aren't a complete surprise, as the effects of significant spikes in prices for critical inputs throughout the supply chain, like fuel for processing and transportation, have made their way to consumers. America's farmers and ranchers also face significant challenges, with record diesel costs, elevated fertilizer prices, increased labor expenses, and a bigger bill for items like rent and electricity — all of which hurt their ability to breakeven at the end of the year. However, unlike wholesalers and retailers, farmers aren't able to pass those costs up the supply chain

THANKSGIVING DINNER PRICES VARY ACROSS THE COUNTRY

At an average of $61.57 for a 10-person classic Thanksgiving dinner, the Northeast has the highest cost. The Northeast's dinner basket cost is about 5% higher than the national average. The average cost for a Thanksgiving dinner for 10 in the West and Midwest is closer to the national average, at $58.74 and $56.89, respectively. The South's average dinner cost is $54.33.

SOME SHOPPERS MAY FIND GREAT DEALS

Despite the overall increase in the average cost of Thanksgiving dinner this year, some of our shoppers were able to find staggering deals on a variety of items, including turkey, which some shoppers reported finding for as low as 69 cents per pound, nearly half the average nationwide price for a pound of turkey. As Thanksgiving approaches, shoppers will look for deals on a variety of items to bring down the cost of their Thanksgiving dinner grocery list.

HIGHER GROCERY PRICES DO NOT MEAN HIGHER FARM PROFITS

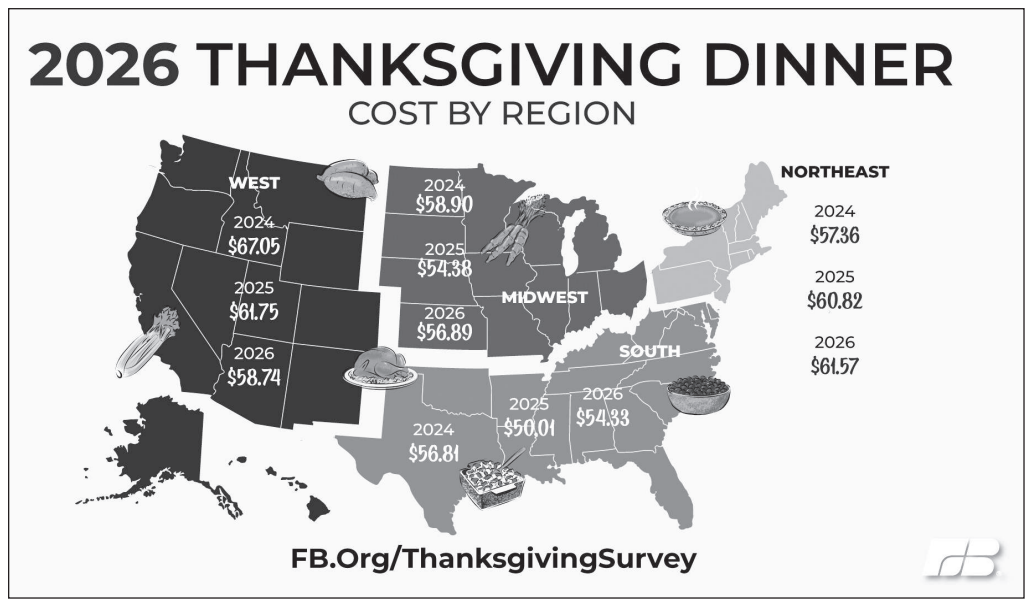

Farm Bureau's 2026 Thanksgiving Dinner market basket survey indicates that Americans will pay more to feed family and friends this Thanksgiving. Nearly all items surveyed increased in price compared to 2025, with turkey, milk and cranberries posting some of the largest year-over-year percentage gains. However, higher grocery prices do not necessarily translate into better returns for America's farmers and ranchers.

Farmers and ranchers are largely price-takers, not price-makers, and receive only a small share of what consumers spend at the grocery store. USDA's Food Dollar Series estimates that less than 6 cents of every dollar spent on food goes back to the farm. Even when higher retail prices translate into increased farm revenue, rising production costs can quickly offset those gains. Elevated prices for critical inputs such as diesel, fertilizer and equipment continue to squeeze farm margins.

For example, this year's survey found that a 12-ounce bag of cranberries costs nearly 9% more than last year. That increase does not necessarily mean the Wisconsin cranberry farmer who grew them is receiving a higher price. Even if the farmer does capture some additional revenue, those earnings are needed to cover increased fertilizer, fuel and other production expenses.

As Americans gather around the Thanksgiving table, it's important to remember that higher food prices can place pressure on both consumers and the farmers who produce that food. Wherever and however you celebrate this Thanksgiving, take a moment to thank America's farmers and ranchers, who continue working through challenging economic conditions to provide the food, fuel and fiber we rely on every day.

'Dear Preacher'

By Buddy Ray, Murfreesboro Church of Christ

IF GOD IS FOR US
Romans 8:31

God has always worked for the good of all mankind and has always been on our side regarding our salvation. We need to understand the enormous cost of redemption for us. The apostle Paul's explanation of the work that God has done in bringing man back from sin to Himself anticipates that we do have an enemy. We have dangerous opposition from Satan and his demons. It is good to know that we are not in this struggle against sin alone. We would fail miserably if left to our own designs because Satan is stronger than we are but He that is in us is greater than he that is in the world. If God is for us who can be against us? Our opposition simply pales in comparison with the mighty and powerful God who is our ally. Our fear of the world and all its hatred for righteousness and those who love the Lord should diminish. The everlasting arms of the Lord will see us through the battles we fight for the truth of God and His church. Jesus said, "And do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. But rather fear Him who is able to destroy both soul and body in hell." Matthew 10:28 Who then is great enough or powerful enough to stop the God given duties we are supposed to perform? Who is great enough to stop the power of the gospel lived and preached? The answer is "no one." No matter how it looks to us, God is able to keep His promises to His children. Nothing is able to separate us from the love of God. Take heart! Have courage! Be faithful unto death and you will receive a crown of righteousness! Revelation 2:10

One year later: Auditor's data match program promotes efficiencies, consumer protection

$32.8 million automatically returned to citizens of Arkansans

LITTLE ROCK – Auditor of State Dennis Milligan's new Data match program has cleaned up one-third of the 6.5 million unclaimed property records during its first year, returning $32.8 million to current and former Arkansans – all without citizens lifting a finger.

"Because the legislature passed Act 114 of 2025, I'm now allowed to send unclaimed property checks to people automatically without them first having to file a claim," Milligan said. "This process has increased efficiency and allowed us to implement other services that promote consumer and fraud protection."

The Act was sponsored by Sen. Dave Wallace and Rep. Jon Milligan, and the Data Match program was implemented in September 2025. Since it began, Milligan's office has processed more than 2.6 million unclaimed property records and returned more than $32.8 million.

"We are returning record amounts in unclaimed property to Arkansans since implementing the Data Match program," Milligan said.

Anyone can have unclaimed property, which consists of financial assets such as abandoned checking accounts, unreimbursed utility deposits, life insurance proceeds, etc.

New services added to the state's unclaimed property program include QuickPay, a service that allows newly reported properties to be matched with their owners instantly and returned almost immediately – so long as the owner information can be verified. The auditor's office also now uses a "death indicator" service that notifies the office if the owner is deceased, boosting the program's fraud protection.

"My goal is simple. I was elected to serve Arkansans, and I intend to do that as accurately and as efficiently as possible," Milligan said. "This isn't the state's money; it belongs to Arkansans."

One of the most impactful results of the office's new Data Match program has been creating efficiencies that allow Milligan's Unclaimed Property agents to focus more time on proactive outreach and resolving more complicated, harder-to-reconcile claims.

"We've been able to devote a senior staff member to the role of 'claims investigator,'" Milligan said. "This person actually tracks down rightful owners of claims and helps people process them, which has resulted in some extremely heartwarming stories."

One such claimant was a widowed man who had planned to file for bankruptcy the following week when Milligan's investigator contacted him to inform him he was owed a substantial amount of money. The man's late wife, unbeknownst to him, had left behind an insurance policy naming him as the beneficiary. Another man told the office he had been living on his boat and was facing homelessness. Both recipients, by their own testimony, said that learning they were owed these monies from the auditor's office was going to change the trajectory of their lives.

"We are making such a difference in the lives of Arkansans and I couldn't be happier with the success of this program," Milligan said.

Despite its success, the auditor's office still struggles with government distrust.

"Many people simply don't believe the government is trying to give you money," Milligan said. "But that's just it; this money doesn't belong to the government anyway. It belongs to the people of Arkansas – or their heirs if they have died."

Heirship claims do not qualify for the Data Match program, meaning people must come forward to make a claim if they believe they are the beneficiary of another person's assets. Milligan encouraged people to check his office's database to search for a claim that might belong to a deceased loved one.

"I'm just trying to return to people what is rightfully owed to them or their surviving family members," Milligan said.

To search for a claim, people may check the office's database at https://www.claimitar.gov/. -30-

Dennis Milligan was elected Auditor of State in 2022. The Auditor's office is responsible for ensuring payroll for more than 700 state government elected officials, prosecuting attorneys, and deputy prosecutors. The office also administers the state's Unclaimed Property Program, The Great Arkansas Treasure Hunt. Since taking office in January 2023, Milligan has returned more than $150 million to current or former Arkansans. Learn more at https://auditor.ar.gov/.
