Centerpoint School Board rehires more staff, will advertise for greenhouse proposals and renovate property across the highway

By Mike Wallace

ROSBORO - Centerpoint's School Board met in regular session Monday evening, April 17, to work through a long and varied agenda.

It began with routing affairs concerning minutes from the prior meeting and the march financial statement. Both were approved before the Board settled into the meat of the evening's work.

It began with Old Business:

The District Vision and Mission Statement was part of the pre-meeting informational packet each member receives. Each agreed with the concepts involved. Interested parties can view that statement by asking for a copy from the main office.

The Board then approved an agreement with the Arkansas Highway and Transportation Department where the district will contribute $50,000 toward the cost of changing Highway 8 in front of the new elementary to install a turn lane. The Highway Department will fund the remaining expenses.

Centerpoint has received money to install a green house on campus for the study of plant life and related botany subjects.

Superintendent Don Breshears asked for approval to seek construction proposals and bids. it was approved.

The final item under old business was Breshears asking for approval to negotiate with Hill and Cox Construction for a bid on renovation of the building across the highway for school purposes. An architect would have to be employed for the renovation due to the anticipated costs. The motion to allow the superintendent to proceed with the project was approved 6-0.

The next items discussed was a legal transfer request and approving the Hazard Mitigation resolution.

The school district to which the student wanted to transfer would not accept him, so Centerpoint's Board refused to grant that transfer.

The Board then voted approval of the Hazard Mitigation resolution.

Under Personnel, the Board voted its approval of the school calendar for the 2017-18 term; and, then approved a 30 cents per hour raise for employees termed as classified workers. Bres-

City Council calls special meeting for resolution

GLENWOOD - The Glenwood City Council held a specially called meeting Monday evening, April 17, for the purpose on passing one resolution.

The title of the resolution read: A resolution adopting the Pike County Hazard Mitigation Plan for the City of Glenwood. The passage was by a 3-0 vote with one council member unable to attend.

By joining the Pike County government, the local school district and the City of Glenwood together in the plan, it enables each to apply for federal FEMA funds in case of a tornado, earthquake or other natural disaster which results in property damage.

Having the resolution on record as being passed, the application process goes much quicker.

There are some places in the 2017 plan where tiny changes were made to comply with new regulations, but is very basically the same, stated Mayor Ron Martin.

This was the only item on the agenda. After its' passage, the meeting was adjourned. The whole matter took about ten minutes to read the resolution aloud and pass it.

Amity woman sentenced to three years in ADC

An Amity woman was sentenced Monday in Pike County Circuit Court after she pleaded guilty to selling drugs.

Emily Ann Johnson, 34, pleaded guilty to a felony delivery of methamphetamine charge and was sentenced to six years in the Arkansas Department of Correction with three years suspended.

Johnson was arrested in 2016 after she sold approximately 1.2 grams, or $100 worth of the drug to an informant working with the South Central Arkansas Drug Task Force.

Charges filed in PC Circuit Court

Two Glenwood men and an Amity woman have been charged in Pike County Circuit Court with felony drug charges.

Jacob R. Barkman, 31, of Glenwood, was charged April 17 with felony possession of heroin and methamphetamine paraphernalia and a misdemeanor charge of carrying a weapon. He pleaded not guilty to the charges Monday and his bond was set at $20,000.

Barkman was arrested on April 12 after he was found walking along Highway 84 with his dog walking in the center of the roadway. Barkman, who is a parolee with a search waiver, reportedly became agitated during the encounter and began emptying the contents of his pockets on the ground in front of Arkansas State Trooper Ryne Shelton. Trooper Shelton also conducted a search of Barkman and recovered a methamphetamine pipe and a bottle containing multiple clear plastic baggies with one containing methamphetamine residue and a spoon wrapped in plastic, which reportedly contained heroin within the bowl of the spoon.

Among the items Barkman has reportedly thrown on the ground were 10 knives, three of which had blades longer than three inches.

Also on April 17, Rebecca J. McCorkle, 50 and Richard L. McCorkle, 42, both of Amity, were each charged with felony possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of a firearm by a certain person.

The case against the couple started in May 2016 when a call was received by the Glenwood Police Department about an unsupervised child. The call lead police to a Clay Street home where Rebecca McCorkle was taken into custody for endangering the welfare of a minor. When she was arrested, she requested she be able to take her medicine with her. An officer went into the home to retrieve the medicine and found Richard McCorkle inside. The man

Former Kirby graduate to head girls basketball squad at Dierks

By John Balch
Nashville News-Leader

The Dierks School Board voted last week to hire a former Kirby Lady Trojan to head up the girls' basketball program for the 2017-2018 season.

Ali Whisenhunt, 22, a 2013 Kirby High School graduate and soon-to-be graduate of Henderson State University, was hired by unanimous vote during the board's April 11 meeting. Whisenhunt did her student coaching at Dierks last season alongside Coach Kevin Alexander.

Whisenhunt will graduate from HSU May 12 with a degree in physical education and a teacher certification in life science. She is the daughter of David and Kristi Whisenhunt of Kirby and the younger sister to Mandy Ott, a Glenwood doctor, and Kay Kirnard, a teacher at Glenwood Primary School.

Whisenhunt said she has never coached for a school team but has coached Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) basketball for the past five years and helped with numerous camps over the years. She added that she started every basketball game ay Kirby since seventh grade and was a freshmen point guard the year the Lady Trojans won the state title. Whisenhunt also earned All-State, All-Tournament and All-District post-season honors every season since ninth grade.

"I feel like I know the game pretty good," Whisenhunt said Monday morning.

Whisenhunt said she has received tremendous support from the Dierks school and community since she arrived for her internship last season.

"I've been humbled by the amount of support I've received and the love I've felt in the last few months from the people in this community," she shared in a Facebook post. "I've felt at home since the first day I stepped through the door. I take on this title knowing my purpose is far greater than simply training teams to win ball games; we are developing successful young women. Coaching has always been my calling, and I'll give all I've got every single day because these girls deserve it."

More counterfeit bills passed, suspects caught

The passing of more counterfeit $100 bills in Glenwood has resulted in another arrest and a felony charge for a Glenwood man.

Christopher D. Ledbetter, 19, was charged in Pike County Circuit Court April 11 with first-degree forgery.

The charge stems from an incident on March 21 when the Glenwood Police Department was called about two males who reportedly passed a counterfeit $100 bill at the Dollar General. A review of the store's security footage identified Ledbetter as one of the males.

Later that same day, the GPD was called to the Subway restaurant where another report was taken about two males who had passed another fake bill. In both instances, the bills were described as having "pink oriental markings on the front and back."

Also on that same day, the GPD was notified that one of the males was sitting outside the Subway with an unknown female. When Officer Justin Babbitt arrived on the scene he reportedly found Ledbetter inside the business' bathroom and the female subject was identified as Phyllis Cogburn, age and address unavailable. Officer Babbitt knew and confirmed Ledbetter had a outstanding and took him into custody.

A search of the trash can inside the bathroom recovered a counterfeit $20 bill, which also had the same pink oriental markings. Subway's surveillance footage identified the second male subject as Montana Curry, age and address unavailable, who was later located at the Glenwood City Park.

Curry told officers he had recently been approached by "Jace" Fogle, age and address unavailable, and Ledbetter about breaking a $100 at Subway and then bringing Fogle the change. Curry stated he did what was asked.

Ledbetter told officers the fake bills came from "Jody" Fogle, age and address unavailable. Cogburn, who came to the police station at the request of Ledbetter, told officers the remaining bills could be found at the Exxon station in a cup in an outside trash can. Glenwood Assistant Chief Matthew Cain located the cup and found it filled with liquid and torn up pieces of fake bills.

An investigation determined the fake bills had been purchased from a website.

Ledbetter is the only suspect charged in the case, thus far, and his bond has been set at $20,000.

Managing Dry Eyes

Dry eyes is a condition that may occur when tears aren't able to properly lubricate the eyes. Tears may not properly lubricate the eyes if they are of poor-quality or if there are not enough tears being produced.

Causes of dry eyes may include aging, diabetes, smoke, low vitamin A levels in the body, and tear gland damage. These causes may decrease tear production or increase the likelihood of tears drying up. Symptoms of dry eyes may include stinging or burning eyes, eye redness, blurred vision and the feeling that something is in the eye.

The goal of treatment is to manage the cause of dry eyes. Corticosteroids such as cyclosporine (Restasis) work to decrease inflammation on the eye surface. Side effects of cyclosporine may include redness and itching. Cholinergics such as pilocarpine (Salagen) work to help increase the production of tears. Side effects of pilocarpine may include nausea.

Victory By Steve Ellison

The Apostle Paul's letter to the church at Corinth written about 55 AD seems as if it were addressed to the 21st century Christian church worldwide. Corinth was already an ancient city. It had been first settled about 4,000 BC. Corinth's strategic location enabled it to control east-west trade routes by sea and north-south land routes. First century Corinth was a cosmopolitan city in every way. Anything a person wanted, good or bad, could be found in Corinth. Corinth had such a tremendous reputation for gross immorality that the term "Corinthianized" came to symbolize terrible immorality. The Romans destroyed the city in 146 BC and rebuilt it one hundred years later because of its strategic location. Within a hundred years, by the time the Apostle Paul visited, it had already grown to 500,000 people. He found a society much like our own.

Paul stayed in Corinth for about 18 months. When he departed for a 3 year stay in Ephesus, he left behind an established church. Some time later, the church sent a letter to Paul, asking some minor questions. Paul made a quick trip to Corinth and found many things he did not like. He returned to Ephesus and wrote the letter which we call First Corinthians. Throughout the book, Paul addresses issue after issue that confronts us today as surely as it confronted the first century Corinthians. What a marvelous book it is. Paul confronts division in the church, questions about conduct and order in worship, and a lack of church discipline, among other things. Chapter 11 contains the earliest written and most detailed account of celebrating the Lord's Supper.

The fifty-eight verses that make up chapter 15 contain a logical, systematic, persuasive argument for the truthfulness of the resurrection of Christ. Paul draws this argument out to its logical conclusion that because of Christ's resurrection and ascension to heaven, believers can expect the same for themselves. The passage begins with a call to standing firm, enduring to the end. Then quickly moves on to proving the fact of Christ's resurrection by telling of more than 500 eyewitnesses, most of whom were still alive at the time of the writing. Paul even names several of them, including himself. What more proof is needed!

Paul next turned his attention to how crucial the resurrection is to our faith. He bluntly points out that without the resurrection our faith is worthless. Even worse, we would be false witnesses against God. He asserts that if the resurrection is not true we ought to be the object of great pity. Paul then declares that because Christ has been resurrected, we will be also, and he lays out the order and some fantastic truths about our resurrection at the end time. He declares that our new bodies will bear the image of the heavenly. What a glorious future we have to look forward to!

Paul closes this wonderful passage with the great declaration that Christ's resurrection has swallowed death up in victory! The power of death has been removed. The sting of death is gone! Paul gives thanks to God the Father because God the Son has given us the victory, and what a fantastic victory it is! Believers in Christ can live in peace and joy because we know that death has no power over us. Death is only a transition for us, not a destination. Christ has given us the victory! By the way, Nike is a Greek word which means victory. Paul used it in this passage in naming Christ's victory over death. Every time you see the word Nike, think about the victory over death won by Christ on your behalf. That will change the way you live.

BONNERDALE NEWS

By Karroll Morphew

Happy birthday to Ellen Childers, Mary Shields, and Helen Thomason, April 22, and Virgie Crews, April 26.

This past weekend was a happy time for us. In fact, the past two long weekends were a happy time for us. Last week I wrote about daughter Martha and her family from Kentucky being with us for a few days. This past weekend the rest of the family came for Easter. The last vehicles left here at 2 PM Sunday, and the last one to arrive at home was Jonathan, who made it to his home in Kentucky at 1 AM, our time, or 2 AM his time. It will be awhile before we have all of them here again. We are very thankful that they want to come for a visit.

A couple of weeks ago I thought that the pollen season was over. And the pine pollen was, but here came the hardwoods opening up. We have sneezed and wiped noses all spring it seems. As I finish this on Monday morning, the forecast is calling for rain. Once again I am hoping that the pollen will be gone for this year after today. This is one of the few disadvantages of living in the woods I suppose, but we think the advantages are far greater.

Last week I wrote about supporting the local cemeteries financially. I would like to add another request – when you bring new flowers to the cemetery, please take your old flowers with you. Please, please, don't throw them down in the cemetery or around the edge. The wind does enough strewing arrangements without people help. Jim and I are on the board of two cemeteries is why I occasionally harp on upkeep. We try to keep them in good shape, but we need the public's help.

Another busy week is ahead for us, but at our age every otherwise normal week is a busy week for us. This is another time that we have appointments, meetings, church, and singings all within the week, which keeps us on the run. With that in mind, I leave you with thought below.

Thought for the week: "Being young is beautiful, but being old is comfortable". See you next week.

STATE CAPITOL WEEK IN REVIEW
 BY SENATOR LARRY TEAGUE • WWW.ARKANSAS.GOV/SENATE/

LITTLE ROCK – During the 2017 regular session, lawmakers considered numerous changes to existing law governing placement of neglected children.

About a dozen were enacted.

Many of the new acts set out clear legal procedures followed by attorneys for the state Children and Family Services Division, attorneys for parents both custodial and non-custodial, attorneys for other relatives of the children and attorneys for the children.

For example, Act 1111 clarifies that when a court order has been filed that terminates a person's parental rights, the division no longer has to try to reunify that parent with the child. That person's lawyer is relieved of the duty of representing the person, and the person is no longer to be notified of hearings and court proceedings.

The act prevents the results from past drug tests from being used to deny a parent visitation with a child. However, if the person is under the influence of drugs or alcohol during a visit, or appears to be impaired, that visit may be canceled.

Act 1116 directs child welfare officials to try to locate a non-custodial parent and grandparents when the state takes custody of a child in neglect.

Act 701 instructs juvenile courts that a non-custodial parent shall be presumed a fit parent, and other parties in the case would have to present evidence otherwise.

Act 861 creates the Commission for Parental Counsel. In neglect and abuse hearings, the commission would provide attorneys to represent parents who don't have money to hire their own. Judges would appoint the attorneys from a list provided by the commission.

Act 994 sets up a legal procedure for people whose parental rights have been terminated, allowing them to petition the court to have those rights reinstated.

Act 994 recognizes that too many displaced children in Arkansas are never reunited with their biological parents, and also never get to live in a permanent foster home or adoptive home.

Its purpose is to add an option for permanently placing children over 14 who have been in the foster care system for many years, especially if the process of adopting them has been disrupted and halted.

Act 700 expands the legal definition of "fictive kin." The term describes people who are not related by blood or marriage to the child in the neglect case, but who have strong and positive emotional ties to the child. Examples in the previous law included godparents, neighbors and family friends.

Act 713 creates a new legislative body to oversee child maltreatment investigations by the Division of Children and Family Services and the Crimes Against Children Division of the State Police. The oversight committee may only review completed cases, and not pending cases.

The committee's meetings will be closed to the public and there will be penalties for members who unlawfully reveal its activities.

Act 996 revises the criteria a judge follows when permanently placing a juvenile with a parent, a custodian or a guardian. The judge may consider whether the adults maintained consistent contact with child welfare officials and how much they were involved in the writing of a case plan.

A Murfreesboro Rattler slides into second base as two Kirby Trojans wait on the throw
Rattlers slip past Trojans 8-4 in April 13 game

MURFREESBORO -- The Murfreesboro Rattlers were able to overtake fellow Pike County foe Kirby 8-4 at home in baseball action held Thursday, April 13.

The Trojans would jump out to a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning, but the lead was short lived as the Rattlers added three in the bottom half of the opening frame.

Murfreesboro would add three more runs in the bottom of the third to take a 6-2 lead.

Kirby added two runs in the top of the fifth, but the comeback door was closed in the sixth when Murfreesboro added the final two runs of the game.

The Rattlers were able to utilize the long ball in their victory, with both Dalton Cherry and Todd Snyder hitting home runs. Snyder would add a double and drive in four runs for the Rattlers.

Leadoff batter J.C. Motley paced Murfreesboro by going 3/4 with a double, a run scored and an RBI. Cherry and Ryan Roberts each scored twice.

Colton Coffman led the Trojans with a single, a double, a stolen base and an RBI.

Deric Putz and Carson Smith also added RBIs for the Trojans, while Haden Johnson both walked and scored twice for Kirby.

Tyler Mann, Johnson and Smith also collected stolen bases for the Trojans.

Jordan Bates and Coffman combined to strike out six Rattler batters in six innings while only walking two.

Murfreesboro utilized three pitchers on the afternoon -- Snyder, Motley and Jack Stuard, who collectively would strike out four Trojans and walked three. Stuard, in earning the save, allowed only a single hit in two innings of work.

With the win, the Rattlers found their record at 8-11, while the Trojans dropped to 3-4 on the year.

The Trojans were scheduled to face off against Mount Ida on Tuesday.
